

A Second

NARRATIVE

OF THE

Late Parliament (so called.)

Wherein, after a brief Reciting some Remarkable Passages in the former Narrative is given an Account of their Second Meeting and Things transacted by them: As also, how the Prolocutor (so called) came Swearing By the Living God, and dissolved them, after two or three Weeks Sitting.

With some Queries sadly proposed thereupon.

Together with an Account of three and forty of their Names who were taken out of the House, and others that late in the Other House intended for seizure of Lords; but being so unexpectedly disappointed, could not take Root; With a Brief Character and Description of them.

All humbly presented to the Publick View.

By a Friend to the Good Old Cause of Justice, Righteousness, the Freedoms and Liberties of the People; which hath cost so much blood and Treasure, to be carried on in the late Wars, and are not yet settled.

To which is added a Third Narrative; Being a Short View of the Quarrel between the King and Parliament; Together with the present state of the Nations Interest, in respect of Government.

Josh. 6. 26. Cursed be the man before the Lord that riseth up and buildeth the City Jericho: he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates of it.

Job 5. 3. 4. I have seen the foolish taking root: but suddenly I cursed his habitation: His children are far from safety, and they are crushed in the gate, neither is there any to deliver them.

Job 5. 12. He discomfitteth the Devices of the crafty, so that their hands cannot find their enterprise.

Job 18. 14. His confidence shall be rooted out of his Tabernacle, and it shall bring him to the King of Terrors.

Printed in the Fifth Year of Englands Slavery,
under its New Monarchy, 1648.

England

100

100. 9. 2. 2.

A Second
NARRATIVE
OF THE
Late Parliament (so called.)

Wherein, after a brief Reciting some Remarkable Passages in the former Narrative is given an Account of their Second Meeting and Things transacted by them: As also, how the Protector (so called) came Swearing By the Living God, and dissolved them, after two or three Weeks Sitting.

With some Queries sadly proposed thereupon.

Together with an Account of three and forty of their Names who were taken out of the House, and others that late in the Other House, intended for settling of Lords; but being so unexpectedly disappointed, could not take Root; With a Brief Character and Description of them.

All humbly presented to His like View.

By a Friend to the Good Old Cause of Justice, Righteousness, the Freedoms and Liberties of the People, which hath lost so much Right and Treasures, to be carried on in the late Wars, and are not yet settled.

To which is added a Third Narrative; Being a Short View of the Quarrel between the King and Parliament; Together with the present State of the Nations Interest, in respect of Government.

Joh. 6. 26. Cursed be the man before the Lord that riseth up and buildeth the City, for he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates of it.

Joh 5. 3. 4. I have seen the foolish making roofs, but suddenly I cursed his habitation: His children also, from safety, and they are crucified in the gate, neither is there any to deliver them.

Joh 5. 12. He discomfited the Devices of the crafty, so that their hands cannot find their enterprise.

Joh 18. 14. His confidence shall be rooted out of his Tabernacle, and it shall bring him to the King of Tyrants.

Printed in the Fifth Year of Englands Slavery,
under his New Monarchy, 1648.

Courteous Reader.

THere was formerly a Narrative published, giving thee an Account of the Chopping, Coming together, Secluding of some, and Sitting of the rest of the late Parliament (so called,) as also, of the things that attend them, and the Acts that were passed by them : The goodness of which Acts, with their tendency to Enslave and Oppress the Nation, is sadly experienced (to the Cost and Sorrow) of not a few ; For instance, First, that Wicked, Unjust, and Oppressive Act for New Enslavings, under which many a Soul hath groan'd ; some though having in the last 16 or 17 Years past, paid twice the value of their Houses in Taxes, have nevertheless been forced, unless they will be plundered or cast into Prison, to pay a Year's Rent more ; in the cruel prosecution of which Act many sad Cases have fallen out. Secondly, the Act for the Exchequer imposing it for ever (with the Cassimets) as a standing Revenue to the Crown ; and letting it out to Farm, to the horrible Oppression of the People, setting up Patentees to Rule them at pleasure. Thirdly, An Act for a three Years Tax to pay the Souldiers, where ; the Great ones get all, and the Inferiours very little, but are behind near a year ; many of them living on Tickets, whilst their great Leaders ruffle in their Gallantry : And as if that were not enough, did then Order a Three Months Tax to be paid twice over. And to name but one more (for brevity sake) Fourthly, an Act for a High Court (so called) of Justice, for the Preservation of the Proctors Person, as if the Law and Souldiers were not as sufficient to protect him now, as when he was General, but an Arbitrary and Illegal Court must be erected in a time of Peace, to take away the Lives of persons at their pleasure.

There is likewise in that Narrative a Catalogue, or an Account given of One hundred eighty two of the Members of that unworthy Assembly, who were Soks, * Which Kimmen, Servants, and otherwise engaged unto, and had Places of Profit, Offices, Sallarises, * and Advantages under the Proctor, (so called) whereby unto in the it doth appear, what fine Suckers they are of the Riches and Fancie of this whole, one Common-wealth, and how unlikely they were, being so back'd for his Interest, million and so well seasoned with the Salt of his Palaces, (Exa 4. 14.) to bring forth sixteen thousand three hundred and seventeen pounds sixteen shillings and eight pence per An. according to the favourable computation by the former Narrative, or Book of Rates. As it was said there, so, here : If there be any mistakes, they are desired who best know, to rectifie them ; if not, then what is here mentioned may be taken for granted. Nb Nb did not eat the bread of the Government ; why must so great Sallarises be continued to them who have gotten so much already. The Taxes raised from the people to pay this, doth ruine thousands, the so much prayed, engaged, fought, and fled for Rights and Liberties of the People. After some Queries proposed the- upon, follows a Catalogue of the Kingsings, or the Names of those Seventy persons, (most of them being the Proctors, Kindmen, and Sallary-men) that voted for Kingship, with the Councils for which they served, that so they may be remembered, and called to an account hereafter. After this, there is mentioned, how that the New Governour, of the Humble Petition and Advice, pretended by them to be then settled, was carried in the House and by three Voices, fifty three against fifty; as also that it was contrary to the Desires of the good People of the Nation, but not being able at that time to get the Names of those fifty three persons, who also rightly deserve to be taken notice of, they were not therein mentioned.

the

You have also those Members of that Assembly, who though they gave not their Vote either for Kingship, or the then Government by the Humble Petition and Advice, but pretended to be against, and disaffection with both, sharply, and justly reprov'd, for betraying the Trust committed to them by the People. First, for being so Sneaking, and Cowardly in their Spirits, as to suffer their Fellow Members to be Secluded from them; and the Council, who had nothing to do with it, so to intrench upon their Privileges, as to let none sit but whom they approved of. Secondly, For being so ready to comply to Sit, or Adjourn at the Proctors pleasure, as if they were his Servants, and not he theirs. Thirdly, That when they saw the Liberties of the People endeavour'd to be violated against by the Kingsings, and also really given away by the afore-mentioned fifty three persons, who petitioned and advis'd the Protection (so called) to take the Government upon him, and to chuse his Successour; they did not Cry out, Protest, Declare against, and withdraw from them, which being their duty they ought to have done; in doing whereof, those unparallel'd wickednesses would of necessity have fallen to the ground: but instead thereof went on with them, stifling their own Consciences, and endeavouring to satisfy their oppressed Brethren, by saying, He had not the Title of King; as if all the Evil; Oppression, and Arbitraryness lay in that; when as at the same time; he hath the same, and no less power, then if he had the Title, and were called King. Yea, a far greater Power then what cost so much Blood and Treasures, to oppose in the late King; and that these slight Pretences would not be plea sufficient to excuse them, in the day of their Account for so doing. After which, some general Queries being soberly propos'd as a close to the whole, is the Conclusion of that Narrative.

Now here thou wilt finde related some of the most remarkable Passages which occur'd in their second Session, with the end, and dissolution of the whole, after two or three Weeks sitting. As also something of another House, (though Namedless yet) covertly intended for a House of Lords, with with a Description of forty three of them, by all which thou mayest be able in some measure to resolve thy thoughts concerning the change of the Cause and Principles, which these great Masters formerly carried on, and profess to do so still. It is notoriously known how even the chief of them sometime said, It would never be well, neither should we ever see good Days, whilst there was one Lord left in England, nor until you (Speaking so to him) my Lord of Manchester be called Mr. Montague: yet now new Lords must be made by the dozens. What Declaring, what Fighting hath there been? and how much Blood and Treasure spent against a Negative Voyce, in the King and Lords? Yet now, not only the Protector himself, forsooth, but all his new upstart Lords, such as were our equals, or it may be below us, must Lord it over us, with their No to our I. Is not the World grown mad? were there ever such wonders before? To fancy what after Ages will think of these men, who pretend to be of the Saints of these times, will never make a person melancholy that shall be serious in it. Not to trouble thee further, eye God more, and Men lesse, and that will stay and quiet thy Spirit: and say to thy self as the Psalmist did, (Psal. 62. 5, 9.) My soul wait thou only upon God, for my expectation is from him. Surely men of low degree are vanity, and men of high degree are a lye.

(5)

A Second Narrative of the late Parliament (so called) giving an Account of their second Meeting, and the things transacted by them; as also their Dissolution after two or three weeks Sitting. With an Account of three and forty of their Names, who in the interval of the Adjournment were taken out of the House, and others that sat in the Upper House, so greatly designed for a House of Lords: with a Brief Character and Description of them.

THe late Parliament (so called) having made their new Modell of Government, called The Humble Petition and Advice, before they had well licked their Golden Calf, or given the Brat of their Brain a Name, were called upon to Adjourn, and break up: And so making more haste then good speed, they left things very raw and imperfect, which afterwards occasioned great Contentts, and in fine, their Dissolution.

According to the time they Adjourned unto, they Assembled again, being January 23. 1657. where after the usuall Solemnities of Devotion performed, they repair to the House, where they found some of their Number Commissioned, and impowered by the President, to swear them. The Copy of which Oath here followeth.

B

The

The Oath.

I do in the presence, and by the Name of God Almighty, Promise and Swear, That to the utmost of my power in my place, I will uphold and maintain the true Reformed Protestant Christian Religion in the power thereof, as it is contained in the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, and encourage the Profession and Professors of the same: And that I will be true and faithful to the Lord + Protector of the Common-wealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland, and the Dominions and Territories thereto belonging, as Chief Magistrate thereof: And shall not contrive, designe, or attempt any thing against the Person, or lawful Authority of the Lord Protector; and shall endeavour as much as in me lies, as a Member of Parliament, the Preservation of the Rights, and Liberties of the People.

† Can those be faithful to the Rights and Liberties of the People, who swear to be faithful to the Government in a single Person, which our too sad experience tells us, so naturally tends to destroy them? Do not those who so swear, undertake to uphold that in the Protector which cost so much Blood and Treasure to oppose, as Antichristian and Tyrannical in the King? Or, is that a lawful Authority which contrary to all Presidents and Priviledges of Parliament, was carried but by three Voices of them that was permitted to sit, there being at the same time at least 80. of the Members purposely kept out till that Act was past? Ought not things to be searched into, and set right upon this account: for that (Mat. 6. 24.) No man can serve two masters.

Which having taken, and coming into the House, they find not only some of their Fellow * Members, but their old Servant and Clerk, Mr. Soebel, gone, and a new one put in his room, whose name is Smith, which with biting a little the Lip, and something in way of Complement, as with a Salvo of their Rights and Priviledges, they for quietness sake Voted him (so put upon them) to be their Clerk, and then settled themselves in a posture for their future work. And the first thing they undertake, is to keep a Day of Prayer in their House, which accordingly they did; and with great prudence, plowing with an Ox and an Ass together, the Presbyters and Independents being both called to Officiate.

The Other House, who would fain have the Honour to be called Lords, or rather a House of Lords, did likewise in their House pray at the same time with much Devotion, and did afterwards agree to send to the Parliament, (or as they would have them again called, the House of Commons) by Baron Hill and Serjeant Windham, (after the manner of the House of Peers formerly) to declare their Message, viz. *That the House of Lords, or the Lords of the other House had sent unto them, to desire their joyning with them in a Petition or Message to the Protector, That a Day of Prayer * and Humiliation might be appointed through the whole Common-wealth.*

* In nomine Domini incipit emiserunt.

* To the other House they were gone for greater preferment.

Which Message began very high Debates, and sharp Speeches from many that were not at the making this tame and imperfect Modell. so as the aforesaid Messengers were faine to wait a long time; but at length got this Answer, viz. That they would return an Answer by Messengers of their own.

The House sitting daily, and many of those that had been secluded in the former Session coming in, the Face of things in the House were in a great measure changed, another Spirit appearing in them then before, inasmuch, that many made question of the things that were formerly done; some speaking at a high rate in behalf of the Rights of the English Free People, and against the Wrongs and Injuries that had been done unto them. This being done day by day, and the House not agreeing what to call that Other House, which was as it were a namelesse Infant, and faine would be named the House of Lords, was the greatest part of their work, save that now and then, some little Matters came under Debate, as the Reviving and perfecting their Commirees, and Reading some former Bills. The Lord Craven's Case also was taken in, and the Council on both parts heard at the Bar of the House, with some other little Matters, that passed; but the greatest part of time that was spent in the House, (whilest sitting) was in Considering and Debating what they should call the Other House.

Towards the end of their sitting, there came another Message from the Other House, after the same manner as before, Desiring their joining with them, in moving the Protector to Order, that the Papists, and such as had been in Armes under the late King, might be exiled the City, and put out of the Lines of Communication &c. This Message being also designed as a shooing-horn, to draw on their owning of them, received a like Answer as did the former.

As for the Other House (who called themselves the House of Lords) they spent their time in little Matters: such as chooing of Commirees, and among other things, to consider of the Priviledges and Jurisdiction of their House; (good wise-souls) before they knew what their House was, or should be called.

About which time also, a Petition was preparing, by some faithfull Friends to the good Old Cause, in, and about the City of London, which was afterward Printed, and signed with many thousand Hands: which Petition makes mention of the several Particulars that were the Grounds of Content between the late King, and Parliament, and the good People of the Nation. And prayeth, The setting these good things fought for, as the Reward and Fruit of the Blood and Treasure so greatly expended in the late Wars, &c. This Petition was ready to be presented to the Parliament (in a peaceable way) by the hands of about twenty in the name of the rest, desiring to submit the issue thereof to God, and the Wisdom of that Assembly. The Court hearing of it, were so affrighted, as they began to consider how they might quell and put a stop to that honest Spirit, which so appeared against them; the Protector (in the mean while) calling them Treasoners and Seditious persons, &c. Threatning to cut their Skulls, and to tread them down as mire in the streets, &c. And turning out † Major Packer, and most of the honestest Officers of his Regiment of Horse, for refusing to serve his Lust therein. And apprehending that nothing could do it, but a speedy dissolving the Parliament, they put on Resolutions accordingly, onely, waited for a convenient opportunity. But something happening that morning, that put the Protector into a Rage and Passion, near unto madness, (as those at White-Hall can witness) he gets into a Coach, and to the Other House he comes, and sends for his son Fleetwood, Mr. Nathaniel Fines, and some others, acquainting them what his Purpose and Resolution was, and what he came to do, (who as it's said) earnestly endeavoured to dissuade him from it; but he refused to hearken, and in great passion swate By the living God he would dissolve them. And so going into the House; and sending the Black Rod with a Message, to call the Parliament to come unto him, He with laying great blame upon them, and charging them with great Crimes, and Magnifying of himself (as his manner is) dissolved them. And this was the fourth Parliament broken by him in five years.

Thus the Two Houses fell and perished together; their Father, their good Father, knocking his Children on the Head, and killing of them, because they were not towardsly, but did wrangle one with another; but what hath he gained thereby? Solomon the wise saith. Prov. 14. 1. Every wise woman buildeth her house, but the foolish plucketh it down with her own hands.

Upon the whole, it is Humbly Queried as followeth, viz.

First, Whether there may not very plainly be read and perceived, a Hand of Displeasure from the Almighty, blinding the eyes, and insatiating the understandings of those unworthy persons, who (* Hiel like (would have built Jericho again; (to wit) fallen Monarchy in a single Person and a House of Lords, with their Negative Voice over the good good people of these Lands) fo as to caufe, or fuffer them to do their work by halves? and to rile, and leave fo Lame, Nameleffe, and In-fignificant, their New Modell of the Humble Petition and Advice, (alias Intrument of Bonéage to the English Nation.) Let the Curle of Confufion that attended the Builders of  Babel* be confidered of.

* 1 Kings.
16. 34.

(9)

Gen. II.
7, 9.

Secondly, Whether those to very wife Gentlemen, who saw it so necessary, and ventured so high, and took so much pains, to bring in again, and anew restore fallen Monarchy and Kingship in these Lands, could according to the rules of common reason and understanding of men, imagine and conclude, That the Gentlemen who had formerly been so wronged, abused, and exasperated by them, in being kept out of the Houle, would be so easily tame, as presently, without any more ado, address themselves to lick their new Golden Calf, and nurse up that Babylonish, Antichristian Brat, they had no hand in, but were against the begetting of? And whether it doth nor speak out a very great weaknesse in their Councils, and a marvellous shallownesse in the Protector, his Council, and whole number concern'd in that Design, in making no better provision before-hand, and seeing no further into the ensuing Danger, so likely to attend their whole Device, and the namelesse Infant of the Other Houle, which they would have to be Christned, and Called by the Name of Lords.

Thirdly, Whether the good people of this Nation have not cause for ever as to abhor the Memory of the afore-mentioned back-sliding persons, so that Parliament (so called) in the first Session of it before their Adjourning, that of their own Heads, and contrary to their Engagement to the "Infriment of Government; by virtue whereof they sat at first, and without consulting the respective Counties for whom they served, or so much as one Petition delivered to them for that purpose, changed the Government, and made one worse, harder, and more grievous to be born, then that they put away; so fastening their new Iron yoke upon the Necks of the good People of this Land, settling great Taxes, with the Customs and Excise for ever, to keep this Yoke upon them?

* The first Infrument is not hereby owned, but abhorred as much as the latter, though I thus speak.

Fourthly, Whether those Gentlemen kept out in the first Sitting, when those hard things were transacted, and afterwards coming in, and being present in the second Meeting, notwithstanding the so great Reproach and Dirt cast on them by the Court, are not highly to be honoured and esteemed, for appearing and standing so far as they did, for Right, and Freedom, and against the Bondages, which contrary to Engagements, Covenants, and Promises, were put upon the good People of this Land? As well as to be blamed, not only for not declaring at their first Seclusion, to inform the People of the wrong and injury done.

done unto them ; But also, when afterward they were so Arbitrarily and Tyrannically dissolved, with the rest of their unworthy Brethren, they took it to patiently, and went so tamely home , and did not in the very time of the Action, Protest and Declare against the Tyrant , and then retire into their places , (from whence they ought not to have stirred at first) and call him to the Bar, or otherwise proceeded against him for to doing ? Had it not been suitable to , and well becoming that noble Commonwealth-Spirit (so much pretended to) thus to have assay'd, though they had fallen in it ? And whether the Army in Honesty, Conscience and Duty , their former Declarations and Engagements considered, ought not to have assisted them therein , as well as they did the long Parliament against the King and his Conventors , upon the like account ? Doth not the loud cries of the Souls of the Saints* under the Altar, slain for the Testimony which they held in their Day, as also the blood of the Saints and others slain in the late Wars, and the Sufferings of our dear Brethren in Prisons and Banishments, call for this their Testimony also ? If so; Ought not this honest word of Reproof for what is past , and of excitation for the future to take place ?

* Rev. 6.
9, 10.

Fifthly, But since things were as they were, and as it seems could be no better, whether all good People in these Nations, have not great cause exceedingly to bless and praise the Lord ? (though they owe little to the Instrument who (Assur-like had other ends) that the late Parliament (so called) was dissolved; who were many of them, such Mercenary, Salary, and self-interested men, as in all probability, had they continued much longer, would have over-voted the Lovers of Freedom , and so have perfected their Instrument of Bondage, and rivetted it on the Necks of the good People for ever by a Law, and thereby made them Vassals and Slaves perpetually. But hitherto the Lord hath in a great measure frustrated their wicked Deceit, blessed be his holy Name.

Sixthly, Whether the Protector (so called) be not a great destroyer of the Rights and Liberties of the English Nation ? for hath he not ingrossed the whole power of the Militia into his own hand ? The Right also of Property ? Power of judging all matters of the highest and greatest Concernment ? And doth he not take on him to be sole Judge of Peace and War, of Calling and Dissolving Parliaments ? Raising Money without Consent in Parliament ? Imprisoning persons without due form of Law, and keeping them in Durance at pleasure ; using the Militia in his own hand against the good people, in these fore-named things, and against their Representatives in Parliament.

Seventhly, Whether the Protector, and the Great men his Confederates, derates, be not rather to be termed Enanick, Whimsical and Sick-brain'd, then those, (who remaining firm to, and being more refin'd in their former, good, and honest Principles, and will upon no account be drawn to desert the good Old Cause) they account and call so? And whether this uncertainty in their Government, and changing both it and their Principles, in so short a time; and going so diametrically contrary to their former honest Propositions, Declarations, Sermons, and Actions, doth not in the view of all the world, Declare them so to be?

Eighthly, Whether the Protector (so called) be not that himself which he unruly charged upon the Members turned out of the Little Parliament (so called) viz. A destroyer of Magistracy and Ministry? Of Magistracy, in breaking four Parliaments in five Years; and pulling up by the roots, what in him lieth, the very Basis and Foundation of all just Power, to wit, the Interest of the good People of this Commonwealth; making himself, and his own Will and Lust, the Basis and Foundation thereof? And doth he not at his pleasure suppress and destroy all Military and Civil Power, and Governours that submit not thereunto? Is he not likewise a great destroyer of Ministry, in taking from them their Religious, or Divine Capacities, putting them into that of Lay or Common? and accordingly, in a professed way, preferring them to places of Advantage by the Tyers.

Ninthly, Whether the Protector be so wise and understanding, so tender and careful of the Common Interest (as is pretended to) above all others whatsoever? yea, above and beyond the four Parliaments he hath dissolved? And may it not be enquired how he came to this great height of Knowledge and absolute understanding, seeing there are very many worthy Patriots, sometimes his Equals (at least) of as high a Discent, of as good breeding, of as great Parts, of as fair an Interest, as also as well versed in Government as himself? Whether it may not be wondered at, that he should be so exceeding wise, and tender above all, even above Parliaments themselves.

Tenthly, Whether Sir Henry Vane, Major General Harrison the late President Bradshaw, Sir Arthur Haslerigg, Lieutenant General Ludlow. with hundreds more of worthy Patriots, that have ventured far in their Countreys Cause, for Justice and Freedom, may not rationally be thought to be as careful and tender of the good of their Country as the Protector?

Eleventhly, Whether it doth not rankly favour of high Pride and Arrogancy in the Protector (so called) to set up his Sense and Judgment, as the standard for the whole Nation, even Parliaments themselves?

selves? And whether thus to do, be not the sad fruit of Enthusiasme, one of the great Errours of this day and time?

Twelfthly, Whether the Protector being so highly conceived of his own understanding, so changeable and uncertain in his Principles and Resolutions, so given up to his Passion and Anger, as against all Advice and Counsel, in a condition near unto Madnesse, to wear by the living God he would Dissolve the late Parliament, and accordingly did so, though the doing of it tended to the hazard of the Commonwealth? Whether he according to Reason, can be thought a person capable, and fit to Rule and Govern this so Great, so Wise, and Noble a People?

Thirteenthly, Whether since the Protector assumed the Government, the state and condition of this Nation be not very greatly impaired? Their Land Forces wasted and consumed at Hispaniola, Jamaica, Mardike, and elsewhere? Their Shipping lessened and diminished; their Stores and Provisions for Sea and Land expended and consumed without profit; their Magazines emptied; their Treasures wasted; their Trade in a great measure lost and decayed; and very great new Debts contracted, little of Old being satisfied? And whether all this be not the better fruit of Apostacy and Treachery, and setting up a single person as Chief Magistrate contrary to Engagements: And the casting away of that Righteous Cause of Freedom, Justice, and Righteousnesse, this Land was so engaged in?

Lastly, Whether the Protector (so called) will not in all likelihood dissolve the next Parliament also, if they begin to question and make Debates of former Transactions, and do not presently without any disputing proceed to perfect the new Modell, of the Humble Petition and Advice? What assurance shall be given to the Countries and Cities that shall chuse, or to the Gentlemen chosen, that they shall not be served as those before were? And whether, if the honest Citizens shall begin to make ready their former sober, and very worthy Petition, or one of the like nature, it will not be looked at again, as a Crime little lesse then Treason at the Court, and become a means of sudden Dissolution to the next Parliament also? Alas for poor England! What will become of thee in the end? How hast thou lost thy self and thy good Old Cause? And whither will these Masters of Bondage carry thee?

A List of their Names who were taken out of the House, and others: (being * forty three in number) that sate in the Other House, so greatly designed for a House of Lords; ^{* All of them, but four, are salary men, sons, kindred, and otherwise engaged to the Protestors, and allied to his Confederates.} with a brief Description of their Merits and Deserts: whereby it may easily appear, how fit they are to be called (as they call themselves) Lords; as also being so very deserving, what pity it is they should not have a Negative Voyce over the free People of this Commonwealth.

1. Richard Cromwel, eldest Son of the Protector (so called,) a person of great Worth and Merit, and well skilled in Hunting, Horseracing, with other sports and pastimes; one whose Undertakings, Hazards, and Services for the Cause, cannot well be numbred or set forth, unlesse the drinking of King Charles's, or (as is so commonly spoken) his Fathers Landlords health; whole Abilities in praying and Preaching, and Love to the Sectaries, being much like his Cousin Dick Ingoldsby's, and he so very likely to be his Fathers Successour, and to inherit his noble Vertues, in being the light of the Eyes, and breath of the Nostriils of the old Heathenish Popish Laws and Customs of the Nation (especially among the Learned) the University of Oxford have therefore thought fit (he being also no very good Scholar) to chuse him their Chancellour. And though he was not judged meet (not having a Spirit of Government for it) to have a Command in the Army when there was fighting, or honest and wise enough to be one of the little Parliament, yet is he become a Colonel of Horse now fighting is over; as also taken in to be one of the Protectors Council, and one of the Other House, and to have the First Negative Voyce over the good People of this Commonwealth, being in so hopeful a way to have the great Negative Voyce over the whole, after his Fathers Death.

2. Commissioner Fiennes, Son of the Lord Sey, a Member sometime of the long Parliament, and then a Colonel under the Earl of Essex, had the command and keeping of Bristol, but ^C gave gave it up cowardly, (as it's said) for which he had like to have lost his head; he being a lover of Kingship and Monarchy (as well as his Father) was taken in by the Protector at his first setting up, to be one of his Council, and made Commissioner of the great Seal, as also Keeper of the Privy-Seal, whereby his Interest and Revenue is raised from two or three hundred per annum, to two (4) or three thousand, and more: And for his Merits and Greatness, (being after the old mode) he was taken out of the late Parliament, to be the Mouth of the Protector in that Other House, and so is fit, no question, to have the second Negative Voice over the good People of these Lands.

(1) As saith the Book of Rate, or former Narrative.

3. Henry Lawrence, a Gentleman of a Courty Breed, and a good Trencher Man; who when the Bishops ruffled in their pride and Tyranny, went over to Holland, afterwards came back, and became a Member of the Long Parliament; fell off at the beheading of the late King and change of the Government, for which the Protector (then Lievetenant-General) with great Zeal declared, That a Neutral Spirit was more to be abhor'd then a Cavalier Spirit, and that such men as he, were not fit to be used in such a day as that, when God was cutting down Kingship root and branch; yet came in play again (upon design) in the Little Parliament, and contributed much to the dissolving of them, as also setting up the Protector, and settling the Instrument of Government and a single Person, affirming, That other foundation could no man lay. For which worthy Services, and as a Snare or Bait to win over, or at least quiet the baptized people, (himself being under that Ordinance) he was made and continued President of the Protector's Council, where he hath signed many an Arbitrary and Illegal Warrant, for the carrying of honest faithful men to prisons and Exile without cause, unless their not apostatizing with them from just and honest principles. His Merits are great and many, being every way thorough-paced, and a great Adorer of Kingship; so as he deserveth, no doubt, and is every way fit, to be taken out of the Parliament, to have the third place of Honour, and a Negative Voice in the Other House over the people of these Lands:

4. Lievetenant-General Fleetwood, a Gentleman formerly of the Long Parliament. and a Colonel of their Army, then Lievetenant General, afterward married (honest Iron's Widow) the Protector's eldest Daughter: Major General Lambert being put by, by the Parliament from going over to Ireland as Lord Lievetenant, it favouring too much of Monarchy, and being nor willing to accept of a lower Title, he was sent over thither under the Title of Lord Deputy Deputy in his room, where he continued about three years; and to put a check upon those godly men there, who are no Friends to Monarchy, he was sent for over again, and cajoled in to be one of the Protectors Council, as also Major General of divers Counties in England: his Salary supposed worth (b) 6600 l. per annum, by all which he is become advanced to a princely Interest and Revenue: he is one of good principles, had he kept them, and of good words like his Father-in-law, whereby he hath deceived many an honest man, and drawn them from the good Old Cause, and by that way hath greatly served the Protectors Designs. His Merits therefore are such, as he, no question, also, deserves to be taken out of the House, and made a Peer, and to have a Negative Voice in the other House, when it shall be named Lords; notwithstanding he is helped in the Army & long Parliament to throw down the House of Lords, and to destroy the Negative Voice, and did fight against it in the King.

5. Colonel Disbrow, a Gentleman or Yeoman of about sixty or seventy pounds per annum at the beginning of the Wars; who being allied to the Protector by Marriage of his Sister, he cast away his Spade and took a Sword, and rose with him in the Wars, and in like manner in the principles of Justice and Freedom, advanced his Interest very much: if he were not of the Long Parliament, he was of the Little One, which he helped to break. Being grown considerable, he cast away the Principles by which he rose, and took on principles of Violence and Tyranny, and helped to set up the Protector; for which he was made one of his Council, and one of the (c) Generals at Sea, and hath a princely command at Land, being Major General of divers Counties in the West, as also one of the Lords of the Cinque Ports. His Interest and Greatness being so far advanced, his Merits must needs be great, and he every way fit to be taken out of the House, and put into the Other House, with a Negative Voice over the good people, for that with his Sword he can set up that again in the Protector and himself, which before he cut down in the King and Lords.

6. Lord Viscount Lisle, Eldest Son of the Earl of Leicester, he was of the long Parliament to the Last, & at the change of Government, and making Laws of Treason against a single person Rule, and, no question, concurred with the rest therein: he was also of the Little Parliament, and of all the Parliaments since; was all along of the Protector's (d) Council, and was never to seek; who having (e) Salary learned so much by changing with every Change, and keeping still (like his his Father-in-Law the Earl of Salisbury, and Peter Sherry on that side which hath proved Trump, nothing need farther be said of his finnels, (being such a man of (e) principles) to be taken out of the Parliament to have a settled Negative Voice in the Other House over all the good people of these Lands, he being a Lord of the old Stamp already, and in time so likely to become a Peer.

(c) Ask his late wife's Sister, the Lady Sands

7. Sir Gilbert Pickering, Knight of the old Stamp, and of a considerable Revenue in Northampton-shire, one of the Long Parliament, and a great stickler in the change of the Government from Kingly to that of a Commonwealth; helped to make those Laws of Treason against Kingship, hath also changed with all changes that have been since: he was one of the little Parliament, and helped to break it, as also of all the Parliaments since, is one of the Protectors (f) Council; and, as if he had been pinned to his Sleeve, was never to seek, is become high Steward of Westminster; and being so finical, spruce, and like an old Courtier, is made Lord Chamberlain of the Protector's Household or Court: so that he may well be counted fit and worthy to be taken out of the House, to have a Negative Voice in the Other House, though he helped to destroy it in the King and Lords. There are more besides him, that make themselves transgressors, by building again the things which they once destroyed.

(f) His Salary 1000 l. per annum besides his other places.

8. Walter Strickland, sometime Agent or Embassadour to the Dutch in the Low-countrys from the long Parliament, and a good friend of theirs; at length became a Member of that Parliament; was also of the little Parliament, which he helped to break: was of the Parliament since, and is now of the Protectors (g) Council: he is one that can serve a Commonwealth and also a Prince, so he may serve himself and his own ends by it; who having so greatly profited by attending the Hogan Morgans, and become so expert in the Ceremony Postures, and thereby to act like an Ape (with his brother Sir Gilbert and the President) to imitate or act the part of an old Courtier in the new Court, was made Captain General of the Protector's Magpye or Gray-Coated Foot-guard in White hall (as the Earl of Holland formerly to the King:) who being every way of such worth and Merits, no question can be made, or exceptions had against his finnels to be taken out of the Parliament, to exercise a Negative Voice in the Other House over the people of this Commonwealth.

(g) Salary 1000 l. per annum besides other places

9. Sir Charles Onslow, a Gentleman who came something late into play on this side, being converted from a Cavalier in in a good hour. He became one of the little Parliament, which he helped to break, and to set the Protector on the Throne; for which worthy service, he was (as he well deserved) taken in to be one of his Council; was also of the Parliament since: a man of constancy and certainty in his principles, much like the wind; and although he hath done nothing for the Cause whereby to merit, yet is he counted of that worth, as to be every way fit to be taken out of the Parliament to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over such as have done most, and merited highest in the Cause, (the Protector and his fellow Negative Men excepted) and over all the Commonwealth besides.

10. Mr. Rouse, one of the Long Parliament, and by them made Provost or Master of Eaton Colledge; he abode in that Parliament, & helped to change the Government into a Commonwealth, and to destroy the Negative voice in the King and Lords, was also of the Little Parliament, and their Speaker; who when the good things came to be done which were formerly declared for, (and for not doing of which the Old Parliament was pretendly dissolved) being an old Bottle, and to not fit to bear that new Wine; without putting it to the question, left the chair, and went with his fellow old Bottles to White-hall, to surrender their power to the General, which he as Speaker, and they by signing a Parchment or Paper pretended to do. The colourable foundation for this Apostasy, upon the Monarchical foundation, being thus laid and the General himself (as Protector) seated thereon, he became one of his (b) Council, (good old man) and well he deserved it; for he ventured hard: he was also of the Parliaments since; and being an aged Venerable man (all exceptions set aside) may be accounted worthy to be taken out of the House, to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over all that shall question him for what he hath done, and over all the people of these Lands besides, though he would not suffer it in the King and Lords.

(b) His Salary for both places 1600 £. per annum.

11. Major General Skippon, sometime called, The honest English Captain in the Netherlands, was afterward Captain of those of the Artillery Ground in London; who refusing to attend the King at York when he sent unto him, and adhering to the Parliament, was by them made Major General under the Earl of Essex, under whom many an honest man lost his life in fighting for the Cause of Freedom & Justice, and against the Negative Voice of the King and Lords, whose blood surely will lie at some bodies door, and cry. He was of the Long Parliament, and helped to change the Government, and make the Laws of Treason against a single persons Rule, and was outed with them.

them. After the Little Parliament (for endeavouring to bring forth what the old Parliament was turn'd out for not doing) was dissolv'd, he was brought in play again by means of Philip Nye (Me rapolitan Tryer of White-Hall) and made one of the Protectors (i) Council, and Major General of the City, in the decimating buhunds; hath been of all Parliaments since: who being to grave and Venerable a man, his error in leading men to fight against the Kings Negative Voice, may be forgiven him, and he admitted as fit to be taken out of the House, to have a Negative Voyce in the Other House himself, not one y over those who have fought along with him, but all the people of these Lands besides, the rather, for that he is very aged, and not likely to exercise that power long.

12. Colonel Sydenham, a Gentleman of not very much per annum, at the beginning of the Wars; was made Governor of Melcomb Regis in the West; became one of the Long Parliaments, and hath augmented his Revenue to some porpoise: he helped, no question, to change the Government, and make those Laws of Treason against Kingship; was also of the Little Parliament, and of those that were since; one also of the Protector's (k) Council; hath a princely command in the Isle of Wight; is one of the Commissioners of the Treasury: by all which he is grown very great and considerable: and although he hath not been thorough-paced for Tyranny in time of Parliaments yet it being forgiven him, is judg'd of that worth and merit as to be every way fit to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voyce in the Other House over all his Dependants and all the people of these Lands besides, hoping thereby he may to be redeemed, as never to halt or stand off for the future against the Protectors Interest.

13. Col. Mountague, a Gentleman of Huntingdonshire, of a fair Estate, a Colonel formerly in the Association Army, under the Earl of Manchester; where he for some time appeared (whilst Colonel Pickering lived) to be a Sectary, and for Lay-men preaching, as also a lover of the Rights and Freedoms of the People, rather than of the principle he now acts by; but that honest Colonel dying, some other things also coming between, he became of another mind: he gave off being a Souldier, about the time of the new Model, it is likely upon the same account with Colonel Russel; did not greatly approve of beheading the King, or change of the Government, or the Armies last march into Scotland, as the Protector (then General) may witness; yet after the War was ended at Worcester, and the old old Parliament dissolved, he was taken in (though no change appearing from what he was before) to be of the Little Parliament, which he helped to break, and to set up Monarchy a new in the Protector, which he designedly was called to do; for which worthy service, he was made one of the Council, (1) a Commissioner of the Treasury, and one of the Generals at Sea; he was of the Parliaments since: all which considered, none need question his fitness to be a Lord, and to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House, not only over the Treasury and Sea-men, but all the good people of these Lands besides.

(i) His Salary for both places 1666 L. 13 s. 4 d.

(k) His Salary for both places 2000 l. per annum.

14. Colonel Philip Jones, his Original is from Wales: at the first of the Wars he had about 17 or 20 l. per annum, and improved his Interest upon the account of the cause, first was an Agent for some Parliamenters to London, where gaining acquaintance, and making good use of them, he became Governor of a Garrison, then a Colonel, as also a Steward of some of the Protector's Lands in Wales, and one of the Long Parliament; after of the Little Parliament, which he helped to break; and to advance the General his Master to be Protector; for which goodly service, himself was advanced to be one of his Council, afterwards Comptroller of his Household or Court: he made Hay whilst the Sun shined, and hath improved his Interest in Land and Revenue in Land (well (m) gotret, no question to 3000 l. per annum, if not more: he is also very well qualified with self-denying principles to the Protector's Will & pleasure, so as he is fit, no doubt, to rise yet higher, and to be taken out of the House to be a Lord, and to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over all the people in Wales, (if they please) and over all the Commonwealth besides whether they please or not. All have not lost by the Cause, though some have.

15. Commissioner Lisle, sometime a Counsellor in the Temple, one of the Long Parliament, where he improved his interest to purpose, and bought State Lands good cheap; afterwards became a Commissioner of the Great Seal, and helped in Parliament to change the Government from Kingly to Parliamentary, or of a Commonwealth; changed it again to Kingly, or of a single person, and did swear the Protector at his first installing chief Magistrate, to the hazard of his Neck, contrary to four (n) Acts of Parliament, which he helped to make, with others, that make it Treason so to do. He hath lately retired for Sanctuary into Mr. Rewes Church, and is still Commissioner 43-44.

(1) Salary 30, 51. per annum

(m) If part of the purchase money was not paid with the great bribe of about 3000 l. for which (as it's credibly reported) he hath been private'y questioned, he would do well to clear himself, being very much suspected, having gotten so great an Estate in so short a time.

(n) See these Acts called, The Looking Glasse, pag.

(e) Salary missionary (o) of the Seal; and being so very considerable in worth and 1000 l. per merit, is also fit to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over the good people, and all such who shall any way question him: he is since made President of the high Court (so called) of Justice.

*Treason never prospers: what's the reason?
For when it prospers, none dare call it / reason.*

16. Chief Justice Glyn, sometime a Counsellour at Law, and Seward of the Court at Westminster, formerly one of the Long Parliament, and that helped to bait the Earl of Strafford, and bring him to the block; was Recorder of London, and one of the Eleven Members impeached by the Army of (p) Treason, and by that Parliament committed to the Tower: the Protector (through Apostacy) assuming the Government took him up, and made him a Judge; and finding him so fit for his turn, did also make him Chief Justice of England: so that of a little man, he is grown up into a great Bulk and Interest, and of complying principles to the life; who being so very useful to advance and uphold the Protector's great Negative Voice, is thereby, questionless, in his sense fit to be taken out of the House, and to have a Negative Voice himself in the Other House, not only over the people, but over the Law, he is to be chief Judge of, and in a capacity to hinder, that no good Law for the future be made for the ease of the people, or hurt of the Lawyers Trade.

(p) He helped to raise the City against the Army, and made the Speaker flee to the Army for shelter, and chose another Speaker in his room in the Kings behalf; and a great deal more.

(p) His Sack taken out of the House, and to have a Negative Voice himself in the Other House, not only over the people, but over the Law, he is to be chief Judge of, and in a capacity to hinder, that no good Law for the future be made for the ease of the people, or hurt of the Lawyers Trade.

17. Bulstrode Whitlock, formerly a Counsellour at Law, one of the Long Parliament, profited there, and advanced his interest very greatly, became one of the Commissioners of the great Seal; one that helped to change the Government and make Laws, against a single persons Rule: in the time of the Little Parliament, he went Embassador to Sweden in great State; that Parliament being dissolved, he agitated there for the Protector, then came over: and when some Alteration and pretended Reformation was made in the Chancery, he stood off from being any longer a Commissioner of the Seal, and became one of the Supervisors of the Treasury, at 1000 l. per annum, (q) Salary: he is one who is guided more by (r) Policy than by conscience; and being on that account the more fit for the Protector's service, there is no question to be made of his worth and merit to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over the people there, though he helped to put it down in the King and Lords.

(q) See Book of Rates.
(r) Ask George Cockain

18. William Lenthall, a Counsellour at Law, made

Speaker of the Long Parliament by the late King; fare it out in all Changes, weather'd many a Storm and high Complaint made against him; and was too hard and wilddy for all his Opposers: his policy and good hap carried him on so, as he ended his being Speaker, with the ending of that Parliament. For the time of his sitting, he advanced his Interest and Revenue very much; became Mr. of the Rolls, purchased Lands in others names as well as his own, for fear of the worst; he was (to be sure) at the change of the Government from Kingly or of a single person and House of the Lords, as being us esse (f) charge-able and dangerous: As likewise at the making those Laws of Treason against a single person for the future (not yet repealed,) The Litchfield Parliament (where some of his Law Judicature was questioned) being dissolved, and the Protector taking the Government upon him, he adventured to comply with the rest, notwithstanding the danger, that so he might keep his place and interest, and avoid a new Storm or Frown from the present Power. Man need not seek far, or study much to read him, and what principles he acts by. All things considered, he may, doubtless, be very fit to be Lord of the Rolls, being Master already, and to be taken out of the Parliament to be made a Lord, and to have a Negative Voyce in the Other House over the people, as well as over the causes in the Rolls, being to thoroughly exercised in Negatives at his own will and pleasure, as too many have sadly felt.

(1) See two De laris. of Parsons of Parliament, one against the Lords, the other against the Kingship.

19. Mr. Cleypole, Son of Mr. Cleypole in Northamptonshire, now Lord Cleypole, he long since married the Protector's Daughter; a person whose qualifications not answering those honest principles formerly pretended to, of putting none but godly men in to places of trust, was a long time kept out; but since the Apostacy from those principles, as also the practice break in, and his Father-in-law (the head thereof) came to the Protector, he was then judged good enough for that dispensation, and so taken in to be (r) Master of his Horse; (as Duke Hamilton to the King.) Much need not be said of him, his Relation, as Son-in-law to the Protector, is sufficient to bespeak him every way fit to be taken out of the House, and made a Lord; and having to long time had a Negative Voyce over his Wife, Spring Garden, the Ducks, Deer, Horses and Asses in James's Park, is the better skilled now to exercise it again in the Other House over the good people, of these Nations, without any gaining or dispute.

(c) His Salary is not well known

20. Lord Faulconbridge, a Gentleman-whose Relations are most Cavaliers, (his Uncle formerly Governor of Newark

for the King, against the Parliament) was absent over the water in the time of the late Wars; a Neuter at least, if not disaffected to the cause; came back, the Wars being over, and hath lately married one of the Proctors Daughters, and was in a fair way (had things hit right) to have been one of his Council, as well as his Son-in-law; however, (suitable to the times) he his lately made a Colonel of Horse: his Relation both to the old and new Monarchy, may sufficiently plead his worth and merits, not only to have his Daughter, but also a Negative Voice in the other House, over all that adventured their lives in the cause formerly, and over all the people of these Lands besides.

21. Colonel Howard, his Interest (which is considerable) is in the North; his Relations there are most Papists and Caveleers, whom he hath courted and feasted kindly, and served their Interest to purpose; it's no matter who lost by it: in favour to Sir Arthur Haslerigg, was made Captain of the Generals Life-Guard when he was in Scotland, wherein he continued for some time in England after he was Proctor; but not being a Kinsman, or a person further to be confided in, in that place, was shuffled out from thence; and to stop his mouth, made a Colonel, and, as the Book layes, a Major General, and had power of Decimation; as also made Governour of Barmick, Timmouth, and Carlisle; hath also tasted with the first, of that sweet Fountain of new honour, being made a Viscount: he was of the Little Parliament, and all the Parliaments since; is a Member of Mr. Cockains Church, and of very complying principles (no question) to the service of the new Courts, from whence he received his new honour; and having with his fellow Lord Cleypole so excellent a spirit of Government over his Wife, Family, and Tenants in the Country, to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House, might seem of right to belong unto him, being also lorded beforehand.

22. Lord Broghil, his Rise and Relation for means, is Ireland a Gentleman of good parts and witty, able to make a Romance, but was not looked on formerly by those of the Good Old Cause, as a person fit to be trusted with the Command of one Town or Castle in Ireland; yet he is now, by his happy change, become a goodly Convert to be confided in, and is made (w) President of the Proctors Council in Scotland: he was of the Latter Parliaments; a great Kingling, and one that in the Last Parliament (so called) put on hard that way; wherefore it were great pity, he being also a Lord of the old Stamp, and so well gifted, if he should not be one to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over the people of England and Scotland, as well as of Ireland; it being a good while since, and almost forgotten, that

An honest man told some of the Council that nothing of him then there.

(w) His Salary
1474*l.* per annum.

that the Protector said, It would never be well, and we should never see good days, whilst there was one Lord left in England, and until the Earl of Manchester was called Mr. Montague.

23. Colonel Pride, then Sir Thomas, now Lord Pride, sometime and honest Brewer in London, went out a Captain upon the account of the Cause, fought on, and in time became a Colonel, did good service in England and Scotland, for which he was well rewarded by the Parliament: with cheap Debeners of his Souldiers and others, he bought good Lands at exorbitant rates; gave the Long Parliament a Purge, fought against the King and his Negative Voice, and was against the Negative Voice of his Brethren, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, being unwilling to have any in the Land; but hath now changed his mind and principles with the times, and will fight for a Negative Voice in the Protector, and also have one himself and be a Lord, for he is a Knight of the new Order already, and grown very bulky and considerable: it is hard to say how the people will like it. However, his worth and merits rightly measured, will, no question, render him fit to be taken out of the House to be one of the Other House, and to have a Negative Voice not onely over the Bears, but all the people of these Lands, though he did formerly to oppose and fight against it: and the Noble Lawyers will be glad of his Company and friendship, for that there is now no fear of his hanging up their Gowns by the Scottish Colours in Westminster-hall, as he formerly so greatly boasted and threaten'd to do.

24. Colonel Hewson, then Sir John, now Lord Hewson, sometime an honest Shoemaker, or Cobler in London, went out a Captain upon the account of the Cause, was very zealous, fought on stoutly, and in time became a Colonel, did good service both in England and Ireland, was made a Governour of Dublin, became one of the little Parliament, and of all the Parliaments since, a Knight also of the new stamp. The world being so well amended with him, and the sole to well stick to the upper Leather, having gotten so considerable an Interest and Means, may well be counted fit to be taken out of the House to be a Lord, and to have a Negative Voice in the other House over all of the gentle Craft, and Cordwayners Company in London, (if they please :) but though he be so considerable, and of such Merit in the Protectors, as also in his own esteem, not only to be a Knight, but also a Lord; yet will hardly pass for currant with the good people of these Lands, it being so far beyond the Last; neither will they think him fit (having the Protectors pleasure) to have a Negative Voice over them, though he formerly fought so stiffly against it in the King and Lords, in order to set them free.

25. Colonel Barkstead, then Sir John, now Lord Barkstead, sometime a Goldsmith in the Strand of no great rank, went out a Captain to Windſor Castle, was sometime Governour of Reading, got at length to be a Colonel, then made Lieutenant of the Tower by the old Parliament. The Protector (so called) finding him fit for his turn, continued him there, and also made him Major General of Middleſex in the Decimating buſineſs, and aſſiſtant to Major General Skippin in London: he is one to the life to fulfil the Protector's deſires whether right or wrong, for he will diſpute no demands, or make the leaſt demur, but (in an officious way) will rather do more then his ſhare: his principles for all Arbitrary things what ſoever being ſo very thorough, let friends or foes come to his Den, they come not: amiſſe ſo he gets by it: yea, rather then fail, he will lend out his armed men to break open honeſt mens Houſe, and ſeiſe their perſons, and bring them to his Goals, and then at his pleaſure turns them out: he hath eſtablished a principality in the Tower, and made Laws of his own, and executes them in a Martial way over all comers; ſo that he hath great command, and makes men know his power: he was of the latter Parliaments; is one of the Commiſſioners (like the Biſhop Panders in the Kings dayes) for ſuppreſſing Truth in the Printing-Preſſes, an oppreſſion once the Army ſo greatly complained of; is for Sanctuary gotten in to be a Member of Mr. Griffiths's Church; is alſo knighted after the new Order: and the better to carry on the Protector's Interests among the ear-board ſlaviſh Citizens, is lately become an (x) Alderman: ſo that he hath advanced his Interest and Revenue to purpoſe. His Titles and Capacities emblazoned, will ſufficiently argue his worth and merits, and ſpeak him out fully to be a man of the times, and every way deſerving to be yet greater, and (Human-lik.) to be ſet higher. All which conſidered, it would ſeem a wrong not to have taken him out of the Houſe, and made him a Lord of the Other Houſe with a Negative Voyce there, as well as where he is; the rather, for that he knows ſo well how to exerciſe the ſame, having uſed it ſo long a ſeaſon, as likewiſe that he may obtruſt and hinder whoſoever ſhall queſtion or deſire Juſtice againſt him for his wicked doings.

26. Colonel Ingoldsby, a Gentleman of Buckinghamſhire, allyed to the Protector; he betook himſelf to the Wars on the right ſide as it happened, and in time became a Colonel: a Gentleman of courage and valour, but not very famous for any great exploits, unleſs for bearing the honeſt Inn-keepers of Alibury in White-hall, for which the Protector commended him to the Tower, but was ſoon releaſed: No great friend of the ſeditaries (ſo called) or the cauſe

of

(x) His Salary 2000l. per annum.

of Freedom then fought for, as several of his then, and now Officers and Souldiers can witness; and although it be well known, and commonly reported, That he can neither pray or preach, yet complying so kindly with the new Court, and being in his principles for Kingship, as also a (y) Colonel of Horse, and the Protectors Kinman, he may well be reckoned fit to be taken out of the House and made a Lord, and to have a Negative Voyle in the Other House over the good people of his Land; the rather, for that he as a Gentleman, engaged and fought onely for money and honour, and nothing else.

27. Colonel Whaly, formerly a Wollen-Draper, or petty Merchant in London, whose Shop being out of sorts, and his Cash empty, no having wherewithall to satisfy his Creditors, he fled into Scotland for refuge till the Wars began; then took on him to be a Souldier, whereby he hath profited greatly; was a great Zealot for the cause, but happening on the right side, he kept the same, and at length was made Commissary General of the Horse; he was of the later Parliaments, and being so very useful and complying to promote the Protectors designs, was made (y) Major General of two or three Counties: he is for a King or Protector, or what you will, so it be liked at Court; is with his little Brother Glyn, grown a great man, and very considerable, and wiser (as the Protector saith) then Major General Lambert, who having with his fellow Lords Cloppole and Howard, to excellent a spirit of Government over his Wife and Family, being also a Member of (z) Thomas Goodwins Church, no question need be made of his merit of being every way fit to be a Lord, and to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voyle in the Other House over the people; for that he never (as he saith) fought against any such thing as a Negative Voyle.

(y) His Salary 14. 11. 3. s. 3. d.

(z) Note that man for what you may read in the Post-Script.

28. Colonel Goff, (now Lord Goff that would be) Sometime Colonel Vaughans Brothers Prentice, (a Solder in London) whose time being near or newly out, betook himself to be a Souldier instead of setting up his Trade; went out a Quarter-master of Foot, and continued in the Wars till he forgot what he fought for; in time became a Colonel, and (in the outward appearance) very zealous, and frequent in praying, preaching, and pressing for Righteousness and Freedom, and highly esteemed in the Army on that account when honesty was in fashion; yet having at the same time (like his General) an evil Tincture of that spirit that loved and sought after the favour and praise of Man more than that of God, as by wofull experience in both of them hath since appeared, he could not further believe or persuade upon that account, but by degrees fell off: and this was he who with Colonel White, brought Musqueters and turned the honest Members left behind in the Little Parliament out of the House. Complying thus kindly with the Proreitors Delignes and Interest, was made (a) Major General of Hampshire and Sussex; was of the late Parliament, hath advanced his interest greatly, and is in to get it eiteem and favour at Court, as he is judged the onely fit man to have Major General Lambert's Place and Command, as Major General of the Army, and having so far advanced, is in a fair way to the Proreitorship hereafter, if he be not served as Lambert was. He being so very considerable a person, and of such great worth, there is no question of his deserts and interest to be taken out of the Houle to be a Lord, and to have a Negative Voyce in the Other Houle; the rather, for that he never in all his life (as he saith) fought against any such thing as a single person, or a Negative Voyce, but onely to put down Chatles, and set up Olive., and hath his end.

plv-

29. Colonel Berry, his Original was from the Iron Works, as a Clerk or Overseer, be took himself to the Wars on the Parliaments side, profited greatly in his undertaking, and advanced his interest very far; who though he wore not the Jesters Coat, yet being so ready to act his part, and please his General, in time he became a Colonel of Horse in the Army, afterward a Major General of divers Counties, a command fit for a Prince, wherein he might learn to lord it in an Arbitrary way before hand at his pleasure; that he is of complying principles with the Court, his preference sufficiently speaks out (neither ought any other be believed of him, or any of his brethren, without a real demonstration to the contrary) so that he may well pass for one to be a Lord, and to be taken out of the Houle to have a Negative Voyce over the people, being so far advanced and gotten out of the pit above them; and if he did formerly fight against a Negative Voyce, and lording it over the people, it may be forgiven him.

30. Colonel Cooper, sometime a Shop-keeper, or Salter in Southwark, a Member of Thomas (b) Goodwins Church, one formerly of very high principles for common Justice and Freedom, like his brother, Titchborn. The Army then in Scotland, sending into England for faithful praying men to make Officers of, the honest people in the Burrough recommended him to the General, in order to have a command; who accordingly went down, but left his Principles behind him, and elpoused other; was made a Colonel at the first dash; and though he began late, yet hath so well improved his interest, as he hath already gotten as many hundreds per annum, as he had hundred pounds when he left his Trade: he hath a Regiment of Foot in Scotland, and another in Ireland, where he is Major General of the North in Venables Room, and Governour of Carrickfergus; so as he is a very hopeful ful way to be a great man indeed : he was of the Latter Parliaments, and there is full proof that he is every way thorough-paced and true to the new Court-interest : so that upon the whole, he also may be counted fit to be a Lord of the Other House, and to have a Negative Voysce over the good people in Swabmark, if they please, and all the people of these Lands beside, it being the Protectors pleasure ; the rather, he being the Mirror of the times for thorough change of principles, Alderman Ticbborn and O. P. excepted.

(a) His Salary 1141l. 3s. 3d. besides Majors General's pay.

(b) Note him for that goodly speech he made to his new Protestor.

31. Alderman Pack, then Sir Christopher, now Lord Pack ; his rise formerly was by dealing in Cloth, near the beginning of the Long Parliament, was made an Alderman, was then very discreet, and meddled little, more like a Neuter or close Malignant, then a Zealot for the cause ; was a Commissioner of the Customs, also Sheriff, and Lord Mayor of London next after Alderman Viner : the Protector taking on him the Government, the Sunshine of the new Court pleased him, and brought him in full compliance : he was one of the Last Parliament, and zealous to re-establish Kingship in the person of the Protector, and judged the onely meet man to bring the Petition into the House praying him to accept of, and take it upon him ; which though he then refused, yet (as it reported) hath since repented his then resolution. However, the now Lord Pack deserves well at his hands for that good service, who being a true Kingling, and of right Principles to the Court-interest, having also been a Lord (to wit, Mayor) once before, and may upon the whole be counted very worthy to be again called, and to have a Negative Voysce in the Other House over London, and all the people of these Lands beside.

32. Alderman Ticbborn, then Sir Robert, (Knight of the new Stamp) now Lord Ticbborn ; at the beginning of the Long Parliament, when a great Spirit was stirring for Liberty and Justice, many worthy Petitions and Complaints were made against Patentees, the Bishops, and the Earl of Strafford ; he being the Son of a Citizen, and Young, fell in and espoused the good cause and principles then on Foot, and thereby became very popular, and was greatly cryed up by the good people of the City, &c. His rise was first in the Military way, where he soon became a Colonel, and by the Parliament made Lieutenant of the Tower of London ; and though he was a Colonel, yet never went out to fight, but became an Alderman very timely, and then soon began to cool and lose his former Zeal and Principles, and left off preaching (as his Pastor Mr. Lockyer did the Church) to his brother George Cockeim. He was afterward Sheriff, and Lord Mayor in his turn ; was also of the Committees for the sale of States Lands, whereby he advanced his Interest and Revenue con-

(c) For which good service, upon his Petition to the Practitioners, he desired him to be an account of 16000 l. which he & others were liable to make good to the Treasury of the Customs.

siderably : out of Zeal to the Publick, he offered the Parliament to serve them freely as a Commissioner of the Customes, whereby he supplied another, and planted himself in his room, and then with the rest of his brethren, petitioned the Committee of the Navy for a Salary, and had it; notwithstanding he was so well rewarded for his pains (after he had pretended to serve them for nothing) yet with his brother Col. Harvey and Captain Langham came off bevy in the end: He was of the little Parliament, and helped to dissolve it; one of the late Parliament also: he hath by degrees sadly lost his Principles, and forgotten the good Old Cause, and espoused and taken up another, being to very officious for the new Court-interest, and such a stickler for them, he is become a great Favorite: it's not hard to read his change, it being in so great Letters. Also things considered, he is (no question) fit to be called Lord Tickborn, being also so willing to receive and resolve to own that Title whoever maligns it, as also of the Judgment that whatever passes from him in any other name, will be void in Law: wherefore to have a Negative Voyce in the Other House over London, and all the good people of these Lands, is very suitable to him; and what though he was so great an Opponent to those things formerly? it's no matter; then was then, and now is now,

33. Sir William Roberts

^{2a} Gent^l man who in the time of the Bishops ruffling, went into Holland, and lived there for a season; the Parliament ruling, and in war with the King, came over again, and after the then mode, found favour, having upon the fore mentioned account been out of the Land, and was made a great Committee-man, and in much employment, whereby he well advanced his interest, and is grown a great man. He was of the little Parliament, and helped to break it, and then (according to Rev. 1. 10.) rejoiced, and made merry with the rest of his brethren in Colonel Sydenhams Chamber, &c. as the Lawyers and other vild persons made Bonfires, and drank Sack at the Temple and elsewhere: but if ever a spirit of Life from God (which is not far off) comes in to raise up that honest Spirit by which some of them were acted, will not he, his brethren, and the rest of that earthly rout, (the false Spirit of Magistracy and Ministry) be tormented and afraid? He was of the Parliament since, and no doubt of right Principles to the Court interest, wherein his own is bound up: Is one that helps on the bondage in divers great Committees where he sits; and is therefore, no question, the more fit to be called Lord Roberts, and to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voyce in the Other House over the people, being so greatly experienced in that way a ready, having continued in the aforesaid Committee so long.

(d) His Salary 900 l. per annum though he hath a good stet.

34. Col. John Jones, Gentleman of Wales, one of the Long-Parliament, was a Commissioner in Ireland, for governing that Nation under the Parliament. One of good principles for common Justice and Freedom, had he kept them, and not fallen into remembrance; he helped to change the Government, and make those Laws of Treason against a single persons Rule; hath a considerable Revenue, and it's likely did not lose by his employment: he is Governour of the Isle of Anglesey, and lately married the Protector's Sister (a Widow) by which means he might have become a great man indeed, did not something stick which he cannot well get down: he is not thorough-paced for the Court-proceedings, nor is his Conscience fully hardened against the Good-Old-Cause; but there is great hope (no question) that in time he may be towardsly: however, (for Relation sake) he may be counted fit (with his Name-sake and Country-man Philip) to be called Lord Jones, and to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over the People; and all his being against such things formerly, may be forgiven, and not once remembered against him.

35. Mr. Edmond Thomas, a Gentleman of Wales, of considerable means, a Friend of Ph. Jones, and allied to Walker Strickland (both of the Council) and brought in upon their act; and of complying principles, no question, to say no more of him, (not having been long in play) being none of the great Zealors, or High-Scotaries (so called) in Wales, may doubtless be counted wise and good enough to make a simple Lord of the Other House, and to be called Lord Thomas, and to have a Negative Voice over all the good people in Wales, with his Country-men John and Philip, and over all the people of these Lands besides.

36. Sir Francis Russel, Knight Baronet of the old Stamp, a Gentleman of Cambridgeshire, of a considerable Revenue: in the beginning of the Wars was first for the King, then for the Parliament, and a Colonel of Foot under the Earl of Manchester; a man (like William Sedgwick) high-flown, but not serious or substantial in his principles: he continued in his Command, till the New-Model, then took offence, and fell off, or laid aside by them; no great Zealot for the Cause, therefore not judged honest, serious, or wise enough to be of the Little-Parliament, yet was of these latter Parliaments: Is also Chamberlain of Chesster at about 500 l. per annum; he married his eldest Daughter to Harry Cromwell, second Son of the Protector, then Colonel of Horses, now Lord Deputy (so called) of Ireland, another to Colonel Reynolds, a new Knight, and General of the English Army in France, under Cardinal Mazarine, since (with (c) Colonel White and others) call away coming from Mardike; there is no question but his principles are for Kingship and the new Court, being so greatly concerned therein: wherefore it were great pity if he should not also be taken out of the House to be a Lord of the Other House, his Son-in-law being so great a Lord, and have a Negative Voice over Cambridge-Little Parliaments, and all the people of these Lands besides.

Let God
look to it.

37. Sir William Strickland, Knight of the old Stamp, a Gentleman of Torkshire, and Brother to Walter Strickland, was of the Parliament a long time, but hath now it seems forgotten the cause of fighting with, and cutting off the late King's head, and suppressing the Lords, their House and Negative Voice: He was of the Later Parliaments, and of good compliance, no question, with the new Court, and serving the Protector anew in all those things for which the King was cut off: wherefore he is fit, no doubt, to be taken out of the House and made a Lord; the rather, for that his younger Brother (Walter) is so great a Lord, and by whom in all likelihood he will be steered to rule his Negative Voice in the Other House over Torkshire, and the people of the Lands; to the interest of the Court.

38. Sir Richard Onslow, Knight of the old Stamp, a Gentleman of Surry, of good parts, and a considerable Revenue; he was of the Long Parliament, and with much ado (thorough his policy) steered his course between the two Rocks of King and Parliament, whereas some more Storms: was not his man taken in his company by the Guard in Southwark, with Commissions of Array in his Pocket from the King, and scurrilous Songs against the Roundheads? Yet by his interest rode it out till Colonel Pride came with his purge, then suffer'd loss, and came no more in play till about Worcester fight; when, by the help of some friends in Parliament, he was impow'ed to raise & lead as Colonel, a Regiment of Surry men against the Scots and their King, but came too late to fight, it being over: being popular in Surry, he was of the Later Parliaments; is fully for Kingship, and was never otherwise, and tickled much among the 70 Kinglings to that end; and seeing he cannot have young Charles, old Oliver will serve his turn: so he have one; so that he is very fit to be Lord Onslow, and to be taken out of the House; to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over Surry if they please, and all the people of these Lands besides, whether they please or not.

39. Mr. John Fiennes, Son of the Lord Say, and Brother to Commissioner Fiennes, brought in, it's likely, for one upon his score, is in a kind such a one as they call a Sectary, but no great stickler; therefore not being redeemed from the fear and favour of man, will, it is probable, follow his Brother, who is (as it is thought) much steed'd by old Subility, his Father that lies in his Den, (as Thurloe by his Mr. St. Johns) and will say No with the rest, when any thing opposes the interest of the new Court, their power and greatness; & may therefore passe for one to be a Lord, and to have a Negative Voice in the Other House over all in Oxfordshire (the University men only excepted) and over all the people of these Lands besides.

40. Sir John Hubbard, Knight Baronet of the old Stamp, a Gentleman of Norfolk, of a considerable Estate, part whereof came largely to him by the Death of a Kinsman: he was of these latter Parliaments, but not of the former; had meddled very little, if at all, in throwing down Kingship, but hath stickled very much in helping to re establish and build it up again, and a great stickler among the late Kinglings, who petitioned the Protector to be King; his principles being to fight for Kingship and Tyanny, he is in great favour at Court as well as Dick Ingoldsby, and, in question, deserves to be a Lord, and to be taken out of the House to exercise a Negative Voice in the Other House over all the good men in Norfolk, and all the people of these Lands besides, being become so very tame and gentle.

41. Sir Thomas Honywood, Knight of the old Stamp, a Gentleman of Essex, of a considerable Revenue; he was a Committee-man in the time of the Long Parliament, and also a Military man, and led as Colonel a Regiment of Essexmen to the fight at Worcester; came in good time, and fought well against Kingship and Tyanny in the House of the Stuarts; was of the last Parliament: he is not so wise as Solomon, or so substantial and thorough in his principles for Righteouse's an Freedom as Job, (chap. 29.) but rather soft in his spirit, and too easy (like a Nose of Wax) to be turned on that side where the greatest strength is: being therefore of so hopeful principles for the New Court interest and so likely to comply with their will and pleasure, no doubt need be made of his fitness to be a Lord, and to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House, over all the good men in Essex (the now Lord of Warwick, the Protector's Brother in-law excepted) and all the people of these Lands besides,

42. Lord Emre, a Gentleman of York-shire, not very bulky or imperious for a Lord; he was once well esteemed for honesty, and therefore chosen to be one of the Little-Parliament; hath also been of all the Parliaments since: the York-shire men happily may like his being new Lorded, and that he should have a Negative Voice over them; the rather, because they never chose him to any such thing: the Protector being so well satisfied with his principles, and easiness (like his Fellow-Lord Henwood) to be wrought up to do whatever their will and pleasure is: and to say No, when they would have him: it is very meet he also pass for one to be taken out of the House to have a Negative Voice in the Other House, not onely over York-shire, but all the good people of the Common-wealth beside, being a Lord of the old Stamp already.

43. Mr. Hampden, (now Lord Hampden) a young Gentleman of Buckinghamshire, Son of the late Colonel Hampden, that Noble Patriot and Defender of the Rights and Liberties of the English Nation, of famous memory never to be forgotten, for withstanding the King in the case of Ship-money, being also one of the five impeached Members, which the said King endeavoured to have pulled out of the Parliament, whereupon followed such feud, war, and shedding of blood. This young Gentleman, Mr. Hampden, was the last of 62, which were added singly by the Protector, after the choice of 60 together: it is very likely that Col. Ingoldsby, or some other Friend at Court, got a Cardinals Hat for him, thereby to settle and secure him to the Interest of the New-Court, and wholly take him off from the thoughts of ever following his Fathers steps, or inheriting his noble virtues, as likewise that the honest men in Buckinghamshire, and all other that are Lovers of Freedom and Justice, that cleaved so cordially to, and went so cheerfully along with his Father in the beginning of the late War, might be out of all hopes of him, and give him over for lost to the Good-Old-Cause, and inheriting his Fathers noble Spirit and Principles, though he doth his Lands. He was of the latter Parliament, and found right, saving in the Design upon which he was made a Lord after all the rest, and the Protectors pleasure. It is very hard to say, how fit he is to be a Lord, and how well a Negative Voice over the good people of this Land, and his Fathers Friends in particular, will become the Son of such a Father; and how well the aforesaid good people (now called Separates) will like of it: but being it is as it is, let him pass for one as fit to be taken out of the House with the rest to have a Negative Voice, and let him exercise it in the Other House over the good people for a Season.

Sir

Sir Arthur Haslerigg. Lord? No; stop there! not Lord Haslerigg, a Knight of the old Stamp, a Gentleman of a very large Estate and Revenue, was one of the Long Parliament, and one of the five impeached Members whom the King endeavoured to have pulled out of the House with the other, but was hindered from doing of it; was a Colonel in the Army, and adventured far in the Wars, continued of that Parliament till the dissolution thereof; was also chosen of these latter Parliaments, but not permitted to sit at the first; he was by the Protector (as may be seen in the printed List) cut out for a Lord of the Other House, and to have a wooden Dagger (to wit, a Negative Voice) with the rest; but he missed his way, and instead of going into the Other House among the simple Negative men, the (f) Offspring of the Bastard of William the sixth Duke of Normandy, he went into the Parliament-House among his fellow Englishmen, and there spake freely, bearing a good witness in behalf of the Good Old Cause, the Rights and Liberties of the people of England; at which the Court were vexed and sore displeased. However, for all this losing of his way, and the loss sustained by it, his Fame and Name amongst all true English spirits, will be higher and more honourable than the simple Title of a New Lord could make him; and instead of a Negative Voice in the Other House, he will be honoured by after Ages as a rare Phoenix, that of forty four was found standing alone to his principles and the Good Old Cause so bled for: Oh sad and wonderfull! but one of forty four to be found standing firm to so noble a Cause as ever was on foot since the world began? Let all true English Spirits love and honour him, and that will be better than a Feather in his Cap, or a wooden Dagger. His Name for ever in the Chronicles will live as one that was a true Patriot of his Countries Liberties; which noble action (if he persevere and be more refined in that honest spirit) may deservedly obliterate all humane frailties and miscarriages of his, during the sitting of the Long Parliament, and the free people of England may (doubtless) for ever bury them in oblivion. No question the Protector found he was mistaken in him, and that he was not fit to be a Lord, or to have a Negative Voice, of no more complying principles to his interest and Designs, and the then New Model of Government, and will scarcely adventure to give him a second invitation to that Honour and Dignity he so ungratefully and disdainfully slighted.

(f) See Armies Declaration in Looking-Glass, p. 5. (say they) The first ground, and rise of Tyranny over the free People of this Nation, did proceed from the Bastard of William, the sixth Duke of Normandy, who to prevent the English of aid, relief by their Parliaments, created Lords by his Patent and prerogative to sit by Succession in the Parliament as Representatives of his Conquest and Tyranny over People as the Representatives and Patrons of the Commonwealth; and to make his usurpation firm and inviolable, he subdued the Law giving power of the free People in Parliament to the Negative Voice of himself and posterity, and under the yoke of this Norman Captivity and Villainage, we have been held by that Succession to this very day, &c. See large Petition, Page 11, 12. of that Book.

being given a Negative Voice, and the then New Model of Government, and will scarcely adventure to give him a second invitation to that Honour and Dignity he so ungratefully and disdainfully slighted.

There was one or two more of the new Champions, that with their wooden Daggers went into the Other Houſe to fight againſt the Rights and Liberties of the good people of theſe Lands; but their Names being waning, and not worthy the enquiring after, nothing can be ſaid of their noble Vertues, ſave that in all likelihood they were of ſuch worthy principles as their fellows were of, and ſuch as would concur to carry on any deſign or intereſt they ſhould be put upon, and would ſay No with the reſt, when any thing came in queſtion that ſeemed to be againſt the Proſecutor's height and abſolute enſeſle, or intereſt of the new Court; which he that hath but half an eye may ſee, was the onely deſign of calling them thither, as a Balance of Government to the Parliament, ſo greatly (though falſly) pretended for the good of the people.

There were alſo of this choſen number of Sixty two, ſome of the old Earls and Lords called Peers, which ſtood off, (viz. three Earls, Warwick, M^rgrave and Manchester, and two Lords, Say and Wharton) and ſtate not at all, diſdaining, as ſome thought, to ſit with theſe new Up-ſtart Lords; though others again apprehend that this their forbearance was onely out of their old State-policy, till they ſaw whether a Houſe of Lords formerly ſo abominated and thrown down (by the conſent and deſire of the good people) would again be reſented and eſtabliſhed, and intended to come in; but I ſhall leave it: Some were in Scotland, viz. General Monk, Earl of Caffis, Lord Warrifon, and Sir William Lockhart; which perſons may alſo diſcover to him that hath but half an eye, what a pitiful carnal low deſign they are carrying on. Some in Ireland viz. Harry Crommel Lord Deputy (ſo called) Recorder Steel, and Colonel Tomlinſon: ſome it may be had to great mind to it, to wit, Colonel Popham, Mr. Peirpoint: others it's probable were ſetted by political or State-illneſs, or other occaſions viz. Chief Juſtice St. Johns, Mr. John Crew, Sir Gilbert Gerrard, ſo as they all appeared not, there being not above forty four or forty five of that worthy choyce of Sixty two, that appeared and ſate there; and it's very likely ſome think there were too many of them.

Thus for the Deſcription and Narrative. Three or four General Quarries are further propounded for a Cloſe to the whole; and it is humbly offered to all ingenious people, and queried.

Fiſt, Whether if it ſhould come to paſs (as how ſoon we know not) that that noble ſpirit ſhould (like a Lyon raiſed from ſleep) riſe again in the Engliſh people, ſuch as it was in forty one or forty two, or about that time, whether theſe Champions with their Feathers in their Caps, and their Wooden Daggers, and thoſe fifty three perſons who preſented to ſettle the Government by the Humble Petition and Advice, would would be able to fight with, stand against, and overcome the same any otherwise than their Predecessors the Lords Temporal, and the Bishops the Lords Spiritual did then? And whether it would not in all likelihood fare with them [and their Dependents the Patenees of the Excise, and all others employed by them, that so oppress and impoverish the Nation, as formerly it did with them, if not far worse? They may please to think of it at their Leisure.

Secondly, Whether in these five years now past of the Protectoral Government, that blessed Reformation which the Protector (then General) and other Grandees of the Army so often promised, and for not bringing forth of which they pretend they dissolved the Old-Parliament, hath to been set upon as to make any the least proceed therein? Or rather, hath there not been a gradual and an apparent relapsing into those very Evils and Enormities formerly so greatly shaken, and in some degree broken, but now healed again of their Wound, and flourishing afresh with open face; the spirit of wickedness and profaneness being risen very high, even among Professors, like the unclean Spirit cast out, and entering again? And in particular, that abominable corruption and abuse in the Law, and Administration of Justice, touching which the Protector (so called) sometime said, It was not to be endured in a Christian Common-wealth, that some should so enrich and gild ten themselves in the ruine of others. So likewise that often complain'd of Grievance of Tythes; touching which he also said, (as was lately asserted in an open Court of Judicature, several standing by to witness the truth thereof, to whom the words were spoken) That if he did not take away Tythes, by the 3d of September next (to wit, 1654.) or such a time, they should call him the greatest Juggler that ever was, and would juggle in all things else. Yet is there any thing done in either of these? or any thing gone about tending thereunto, now in these five years? as if it were so, that no fruit would ever grow upon such a Tree, (viz. the Monarchical Foundation) which the Lord hath pulled up and cutted, as the barren Fig tree was: only there is one goodly amendment to wit a confirmation of the Act for treble damages, to the undoing of many an honest man, that upon conscientious grounds do scruple the payment of them. And as for the Law and the Lawyers, they are as before, if not much worse; and is there any ground of hope that the next five years (should he coninue so long) will produce any better fruit than the five that are already past?

Thirdly, Whether this Calculation of these ignoble Lords of the New-Stamp, being of several Complexions, and standing in the fore-mentioned Capacities and Relations, having also such dependence upon, and lying under so great Engagements unto the Protector, (is called) called) as his Sons and Kindred, Flattering Courtiers, corrupt Lawyers, degenerated Sword-men, and a sort of luke-warm indifferent Country Knights, Gentlemen and Citizens, most of them self-interested Salary-men, be not likely (according to the very specious pretence) to prove a brave Balance of Government? And whether the good people of this Land are likely to have their just Rights and Freedoms, or religious men the Liberty of their Consciences by this Constitution, any other wise, then according to the pleasure of the Protector and the Court? Or then they had in the time of the late King? And whether this Calculation were made to any other end than to?

Lastly, Whether, all things soberly weighed and considered, the Times be now so happy and blessed, as some do loudly bespeak them to be? And whether for the future we are likely to have such prosperity, success, and good days, as some so largely promise themselves? and others it may be expected? Or whether such smiling upon old wickedness, and frowning and turning the back upon Righteousness, suppressing its growth, be any comfortable ground of such hope and expectation? Or whether upon the whole Series of things, as they now appear, there be not rather to be expected some sadder matter, if the Lord in mercy prevent not? Let the wise in heart consider.

THE END.

READER,

IF thy Patience be not quite worn out, read the following Postscript, which makes mention of the late flattering Addressees, &c. it may concern you: As also, a Vindication of that faithful Friend to the Cause of God and his People, M. John Portmans, (late Secretary to the Fleet under General Blake) now Prisoner for Truth in the Tower, whom that lying Court-Pamphleter Nedham hath falsely aspersed and reproached in the late Diurnals.

A Post-Script to the Reader.

TH E fore-going Narrative was composing and preparing to have come forth (like Apples of Gold in Pictures of Silver) in the fittest Season, during the life-time of Oliver the late Protector (so called) and calculated for that end, among other, that as in a Glass he might clearly see his Mutability and Changeableness in his Principles; as also his Judas-like Treachery and Deceits, and how wickedly he had dealt with the Lord, his People, and the Nation, and the Righteous Cause on foot therein; but the Lord having in answer to the earnest Desires and Prayers of some of his faithful Remnant, and in great mercy to the Nation, and the good People therein, and the righteous cause, removed and taken him out of the way, it was thought fit however to publish it for the sake of his Associates and Confederates he hath left behind him, who may happily make some use of it; as also that the standers by, yea, the whole Nation, might likewise see and judge of what hath lately fallen out in this our day.
F in

It is said of Jeroboam the Son of Nabat, That he not onely sinned himself, but made Israel to sin; and there were those of his Confederates that then sinned with him, and after he was dead and gone, of whom it is recorded, That they walked in the ways, and departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, the Son of Nabat who made Israel to sin.

1 King: 15.

34. compared with 2 King:

17.21, 22.

The parallel hereof we have in England in this our day: Oliver the late Protector (so called) who (Jeroboams-like) so greatly appeared with the People for Justice and Freedom against Oppression, highly professing and declaring for the same, hath sinned in the breach of those Professions and Declarations, in building again those things he had been so greatly instrumental to destroy; therein surpassing not onely the deeds of the Wicked who were cut off upon the like account, but also of Jeroboam, who never made such Professions and Declarations as he had done.

There also are of his Confederates (as the Confederates of Jeroboam) that sinned with him in his Apostacy and Revolts, and do yet continue in those sins, and walking in his steps now he is dead and gone, as if they took no notice of the displeasure and wrath of God revealed from Heaven against him, in cutting him off for his unrighteousness. Israel sinned sorely for their evil, and at last were carried away Captive: England hath likewise suffered, and is brought very low, at the hands of all sorts, Shop-keepers, and others, both in City and Country find by such sad and woful experience as they never did before, nor in the memory of man was the like ever known or heard of: and what may further suffer, the Lord (who will not be mocked) onely knows.

For how unworthy are the People of this Generation, not onely the more dark and sordid, but too many who profess to be Saints, and are Pastors and Members of Churches; nay, some who are Mercurial and more high flown, that once spake the Language of Zion, and highly appeared for the Good Old Cause, who notwithstanding they have seen the mighty Arm and Power of God displayed, in bringing down the unrighteous, oppressive, high and lofty Ones (with their Foundation) for their unrighteousness and oppression, yet have so far forgotten the Good Old Cause so signally owned from Heaven, and are so besotted and degenerated into a self seeking slavish, and enslaving Spirit, as they not onely justify, but strengthen their hands, who (instead of pressing forward with more refinedness in that Work and Cause, leading to what it shall be when the Promises and Prophecies relating to the Kingdom of Christ and Zion shall be fulfilled) have made a Captain or Protector, and are gone back to Egypt, (to wit, the old wicked Foundation and things of Monarchy that have been destroyed) and thereby under a new name upholding and blessing the People under the old Oppressions.

And

And do say of (g) Oliver their late Egyptian Captain, (g) In their Addresses to his son Richard, his worthy Successor.
who hatched this Cockatrice Eggs, and brought forth all his wickedness, and thereby did more hurt to the Nation than ever he did it good, and for which his Memory will deservedly for ever sink in the Nostrils of the Lord's faithful People,

That he was a Moses, the great Father and Protector of his People, our late most worthy Prince that used all means to deliver us from Bondage, by whom we enjoy Freedom in Spiritual and Civil Government, &c. most excellent Prince of happy Memory, the famous Champion of our Liberties, &c. the Father, Protector, and Buckler of these Nations, and the People of God, who rescued, procured, and maintained our just Liberties to us, &c. the great Assertor of the Liberties of God's People, and a Lover of their Civil Rights, &c. who well deserves to be a Pattern to all succeeding Princes, &c. our gracious Benefactor, a Nursing Father to his People, by whose hand the Yoke of Bondage hath been broken both from the Necks and Consciences of good People, &c. an Instrument of unspeakable Blessings, all whose great Enterprises the Lord constantly prospered with high success, &c. the great Protector of our Peace and Joy, who admirably got and (h) never lost, but left three Nations in Peace, &c. We cannot but deeply resent that stroke of Providence that took away the breath of our Nostrils, and smote our head from off our shoulders, your most gloriously renowned Father.

(h) Have you forgotten Hispaniola, and the war with Spain.

Our Elizab. &c. your most illustrious, accomplished, most glorious, heroic, most renowned, blessed, most holy, serene Princely Father, that sacred Person, the delight of our Eyes, our glorious Sun is set, that unspeakable loss, the Light of our Eyes, and the breath of our Nostrils, &c.

Bur alas! This our Moses the Servant of the Lord is dead; and shall we not weep? If we weep not for him, yet we cannot but weep for our selves; we cannot but look after him, crying our Father, our Father, the Chariots of Israel, and the Horsemen thereof, &c. Falsely and wickedly alluding to Moses and Elizab. those two, for ever to be honoured, faithful Servants of the Lord: with many other the like fawning, blasphemous, lying Excessions, have they in these wicked Addresses, wherein they lye and flatter: for the Lord and his faithful Remnant know he was not so especially in his latter days, but was rather acted by the back-sliding Spirit of Chorah, Dathan, and Abram, as also the famous and renowned Princes of the Congregation; yes, the Congregation itself, who rebelled against the Spirit of the Lord in Moses, Calb, and Jehua, &c. and would not press on to Canaan, (the Work of that day) but said, Let us make a (i) Captain, and return into Egypt, and would have stoned Calb (i) Numb. 14. and Jehua, because they would have had them gone forward: As also by the Spirit of Ahab, Jehu, and the rest of the backsliding wicked Kings of Israel and Judah.

The Spirit of the Beast and false Prophet in the former and present Monarchs of this and other Nations, which the Lord hath said will slay and consume; but not the Spirit of Elijah, Moses, Caleb, and Joshua, the Lords faithful preserving ones of old, as by what is before and afterwards mentioned, doth too plainly and sadly appear; for he not onely endeavoured to establish himself in this Tyranny, but before his departure, when he scarce had his senses, or could hardly speak, appointed (as some report, though some speak otherwise, his fore-mentioned eldest Son Richard, to succeed him in the Government to support and maintain that Apostasy and Wickedness, which himself and Tubal, &c. had been the first Centrevs, and then Actors of, thereby to hold us perpetually under the old Monarchical Egyptian Bondage, which was no sooner effected, and he proclaimed, but the afore-mentioned Addressees, as they blasphemously and flatteringly speak in way of honouring his Father, so in the same Addressees do they speak of him, falsely, and wickedly alluding to good Joshua, Solomon, and Elijah, who succeeded Moses, David, and Elijah, after their death, saying to this purpose:

We humbly beg, That though your renowned Father, who as a designed Instrument, helpt us out of Egypt (having Canaan in his Eye) was even then called to Mount Neb to dye there; yet you, as another Joshua with his Spirit, redoubled upon you, may by the efficacious conduct of the Captain of the Lords Host, lead us into a more full possession of Truth and Righteousness, &c. In times of old, when God took away Moses from his People, in tender Mercy he gave them a Joshua to succeed him: Such are our hopes of your Highnesss Gods aim and end in taking away his Moses, was to usher you in, his Joshua, &c. But since it was the Will of God our glorious Sun should set, and that even whilst he was ascending, we ought to submit unto it: it is no little Alleviation to our sorrow, that though our Sun be set, no Night hath followed, but our Evening hath been light, by raising your Highness into your Royal Fathers Seat, &c. You are our great Master, the person designed by God: and Man to reign over us, &c. It begets no little joy in our spirits, when we behold the Son of that Father by a Divine Providence succeed him in the Throne by his own appointment, given us a most choice Legacy, and his last Blessing, &c. A Pledge of Divine Love and Goodness to these Nations, &c. Some sayings, If his Father had not appointed him to succeed him, the common interest and peace of the Nation, without Gods Assistance, had perished together with him, &c. Happy Successour, in whom we shall be able to say, Mercy and Truth are met together, under whose Government, Righteousness and Peace hath kissed each other, of whose exceeding Verrues and Endowments we have had experience, &c. God hath been pleased in the midst of Judgment to remember Mercy, in appointing your Highness to succeed your Father; your most excellent serene Highness, a Branch of that Princely Stock, on you our hopes rest, Richard by the Grace of God Lord Protector; your most serene Highness, our Sovereign and General, the Noblest Branch of that Renowned Stock; and desire that he might build up unto perfection upon that (wicked) Foundation which his Fathers blessed hand had laid. And pray, that the spirit of their departed Elijah, even the Chariots and Horsemen of Israel might rest upon him, &c.

And a great deal more of this blaspheinous flattering stuff, which would be too tedious to relate : Which Addressees, The Humble Petition and Advice, being so often mentioned, and their desiring him to keep the Sword-Military in his hand, the Design in them, and strain of expressions so like to others, brags a shew of insipution, they were rather hatch'd at the Court by Secretary Thurlow, and the old malignant Pamphleter, lying, railing Rabbi Nehb, and defamer of the Lords People, Naboth, alias Mercutus Pragmaticus, who formerly writ for the King against th^e Parliament ; and by their Mercenary Emisaries and Agents suggested to, and forced upon the simple People (as the Address to his Father were formerly upon the Army and elsewhere, rather then in their first motion naturally flowing from the Addressers ; which the Lord in due time will discover : And not only these, but also that great independent Doctor (so called) Thomas Goodwin, he (Asion-like) comes in as a Leader, one of the first among them, to encourage the joyeying and dancing about this new Golden Calf ; and in the speech that he made (pretendedly in the name and by the appointment of the Pastors and Messengers of above one hundred Congregational Churches from several parts of the Nation (as says the Pamphilet) says he, We come with hearty acknowledgment of the best Liberties, enjoyed under your Highness now blessed Father, &c. all which have been continued to us through the Protection of the great Mordecai : that fought the Weal of his People and spake (k) Peace to all his Seed : blessed be God for his unspeakable gift, &c. which we are here come jointly to acknowledge to your Highness, &c. Saying, the We also come full of joyeying, blessing God for so happy and quiet a settle-ment of the Nation and Government in your person and succession : Solomon, their faithful-though he had his name from Peace, yet was not his first entrance so peaceable as this of yours, &c. And after mentionings, about what they met at the Savoy, Cause, and lea- and that his Father knew of the Meeting before-hand, and approved of it, and using them of a Declaration they had drawn up to clear themselves from the aspersions there upon be laid upon them, and laying down therein what the Principles of the Independents were, &c.

And now (says he) we present to your Highness what we have done, and com- mit to your Trust the common Faith once delivered to the Saints of the Go- spel and the saving Truths of it, being a National Endowment bequeathed by peace ? Well Christ himself at his Ascension, and committed to some in the Nations behalf, (said Doctor, committed to my trust, saith Paul, in the Name of the Ministers ; and we look at the Magistrates as (1) Custas utriusque tabule, and so (m) commit it to (1) To wit, your trust as our chief Magistrate, &c. and we bid's you out of Zion, &c. Which Keeper of both practice and speaking, especially considered as the Case now stands, and as to Tables. the Person to whom it is spoken, having also (according to the Doctors sence) (m) Do not no footing in Scripture, is the Practice and Language of Babylon, and not of these severall Zion, and greatly discovers, that the poor Doctor never had a true Tincture Churches by within him, or taste of sweetness in Communion with God in discovery of that their sence, Glory of Zion, and Kingdom of Christ, he so largely hath spoken and writ of, hold forth that but had it from Books and Hear-say ; for it is impossible, that one who hath they consent to truly tasted of that Glory, except he be desperately infatuated, or holds falling what their Pa- away, should bring forth such cursed unimely fruit, so contrary to the true light flour and Mes- sengers have done herein ? and so are fallen in with, and Abettors of the Apostasy of this day ? And if it be not sought they not to declare against it ?

and

and Spirit of Zion, as this is. Was not the Bishops, and the simple Clergy, who were acted by their fear or favour, formerly condemned by him & others for styling the late & former Kings, Defenders of the Faith, and supreme Head of the Church under Christ; so generally acknowledged in its original to proceed from Henry the 8. who for self-ends, not the glory of God, dethron'd the Papal Power in England, and took the Popes (usurped) Supremacy and Title of Defender of the Faith, as well as the Tythes and First-Fruits, upon and to himself. Is it not the general received Principle of Independents and other Sectaries (so called) who are clear-sighted (and not without ground) to plead against such a Tenet? But these things declare, that Mr. Goodwin sucks such sweetness from the great Sovereignty, Honour and Profit of Magdalen Colledge in Oxford, & hath therewith drawn in such a Tincture of that Spirit, which naturally and usually breaths in persons inhabiting those places, as he is loth to be weaned from it; & therefore will, right or wrong, turn in and comply with any things, so he may keep his interest there: It will be well for him if I am mistaken. But I leave what may further be spoken to this Subject, to a better Pen, who may take it in hand when his Book comes forth in Print. And together with him, that cringing Court-Chaplain Peter Sterry, that also bows to what ever is uppermost, speaking higher then all this, as is credibly reported by several godly men that heard him to their astonishment: holding forth his Bible in the Chappel of White-Hall, he spake to this purpose: That if that were the Word of God, then as certainly that blessed Holy Spirit (meaning the late Protector) was with Christ at the Right Hand of the Father; and if he be there, what may his Family and the People of God now expect from him? for if he were so useful and helpful, and so much good influenced from him to them when he was in a mortal State, how much more influence will they have from him now he is in Heaven? the Father, Son, and Spirit, throw him bestowing gifts & graces, & upon them. And a great deal more to this purpose: and as he spake thus blasphemously of his Fathers, so the same Spirit running in the aforementioned flattering Addressee, breath'd from him to his Son (the now Protector so called) which also greatly discovers within what walls he breaths: But I shall let the Father pass, and speak a little of the Son his Successor; and in short, a little late Addressee to him, as if he were a second Solomon, Joshua, or Elisba. Oh you blasphemous, lying, flattering Cyclophant Addresseurs in City, Country, Army, &c. or Offspring of Thurio and Nedham the Pamphleteer, who are so ready to cry up Adonijah the false, and to cry and keep down Solomon the true spirit of Magistracy! give me leave a little to reason with you: What eminent appearing Work of Grace, or of the Image of God, did you ever experience in and upon him, or heard of from others, not acted by a self-seeking, fawning, servile spirits, but truly fearing the Lord? What eminent action for God, his Cause, or People, did you ever see or hear he did, either in his Fathers lifetime, or since his death, that you so highly speak? and allude, as if he had a Joshua, Solomon, or an Elisba's spirit? Is Hawking, Hunting, keeping Race-horses, and riding Horse matches, to the endangering of the lives, both of Horse and Men; wherein, for the most part, the most carnal of Professors, and the worst of men are oftenest exercised, and must therefore of necessity be his companions, such a demonstration of these noble virtues and high endowments you so speak of to be in him?

Pray

Pray bear with me, that I thus reason with you; for my Spirit is grieved when ever I read or think of these your late Addresses; and it is fully settled in my heart, & I can believe no other, but that it is a carnal, unbelieving, selfish, filthy spirit, by which you are acted; & which the Lord by his Spirit in his People hath already, & will further discover, blow upon, & consume. Dost the following words and action declare him to be what you to speak of him? I will tell you what is commonly reported amongst honest men, which I had from a good hand and am fully satisfied is very true, yea, and more then I shall here relate: One Cornet sumpter in Col. Ingoldsby's Regiment, knowing the wickedness & naughtiness of Major Bibington (Major thereof) to be such as to dis-own and brow-beat the honest men in the Regiment, and to countenance Drunkards, Liars, Sweaters, and Haters of Goodness, and good men, being for a long time grieved thereat in his Spirit; at length (by the advice of some eminent in the Army) drew up several Articles to present to a Court-Martial, or elsewhere against him; which your most illustrious, serene, and renowned Protector, the Inheritance of his Fathers noble virtues, hearing of, sends for the Cornet to come unto him: who when he was come, the Major and Col. Ingoldsby, &c. being all to present, your Josias, Solomon, and Elisba, spake after this manner to him: Josb What? have you Articles against your Major? Corn Yes. Josb What are they? Corn A pretty number of them. Then the Major began to answer to one, but nothing to the purpose; I, ut before the Major had done, your most serene Protector, for Josbas, unjustly takes part with the Major to help him out, saying to the Cornet; You article against your Major because he is for me? (n) Meaning the Officers who often meet to seek the you are a (n) company of Mutineers; you deserve a hundred of you to be hanged; and I will hang you and strip you as a man would strip an Kelle; you talk of preaching and playing men; they are the men that go about to undermine me. And clapping his hand upon Col. Ingoldsby's shoulder, said, Go thy way Lord, and be-Dick Ingoldsby, Thou canst neither preach nor pray; but I will believe thee before I will believe 20 of them, And says he to the Cornet, You never owned Slavery I am the my Father; you have I st your Commission, and shall never ride more in this Good Old Army, &c. and a great deal more to this purpose, which I leave to Pragmatica Cause.
 (formerly the old, now the new Court-Pamphleter) more perfectly to relate. Is so speak hath been since he took the Government upon him? O: would Jos- bas, Solomon, or Elisba thus take part with wickedness and wicked men, and do to unrighteous and wicked an action, and speak thus profanely and wickedly?
 Surely no: Wherefore acknowledge your iniquity, and lye low before the Lord for these your blasphemous, lying, flattering Expressions in your wicked Adresses, whereby you have so reproached and wronged good Josbas, Solomon, and Elisba, in making such undue Comparisons: wherefore repent, you flattering
 Courtiers, Peter Sterry and the other Court-Chaplains: Repent, repent, Thomas Goodwin, and ye Pastors and Ministers of (as it's said) above an hundred Congregational Churches in England.

Repent ye Apostate-Army; Repent you Mayor, Aldermen, Common-Council, and Militia of London, whose Principles are so base and mercenary, & like a Beast looking downward, as to sale with (whether right or wrong) what ever is uppermost, like your Sword-Bearer and Officers, who cry Grace, grace, and bow to one Lord Mayor to day, and do the same to the next the morrow.

Repent also you Presbyterianical Ministers of the City, &c. who by the persuasion of 3 or 4 eminent self-interested Cycophants among you, were drawn in against your Light and Consciences, to carry your bodies to White-hall (leaving your hearty good will at home) to address your selves to this new Golden Calf, as an owning of him; and this from unbelief and slavish fear of being frowned upon, or losing your Parish-places. Will such a Practice as this stand good before the Lord in the day of your account? Repent also all of you for spending 50 or 6000*l.* about a Heathenish Popish Funeral Pomp, not once by wicked in it self, but at a time when so many Tradesmen and others break, and are ready to starve; and when you had done, then following an Image of Wax to Westminster, as if it had been a dead mans body; wherein you lyed unto, and mocked both God and Man. Repent also you Country Protestors, & others, of these flattering, blaspheinous, lying Addresses, and speak nor do no more so wickedly, lest the Judgments of the Lord break in upon you, as upon back-sliding Israel of old; and your Carcasses fall in the Wilderness, &c. as theirs did, for making, and then dancing about the Moultien Calf, and their desiring to make a Captain to return into Egypt, and opposing the Spirit of the Lord in Moses, Caleb, and Joshua, and his work in that day. And take heed. Oh you Parliament, that you do not say, or do as these have done; whom I so call, if you keep close to, and endeavour the promotion of the Good Old Cause, and cast out the false spirit of the Egyptian Bond-woman, the Protector (so called) and his Lords, and make way for, and bring in the Spirit of Zion, the Free-woman, the true Spirit of Magistracy, by Judges and Counsellors as at the beginning, men fearing God, and hating Covetousness, and faithful with all the Saints. If you thus proceed, my self, and the Lords faithful People will love, own, live, and dye with you: if not, we shall abhor and disown you, as we did the former, and now Protector and his Lords, and shall trust God with our Liberties, and not fear your Frowns.

And now a word for your encouragement, my Friends, who remain faithful to the Lord in this evil day; and are, as it were, in the Clefts of the Rocks. Cant. 2. 14.) and secret places of the fairs, in pain, crying, and praying night and day, giving the Lord no rest (Isa. 62. 6, 7.) till he revive the Good Old Cause, and cause the righteous of Zion to go forth as brightness, and the Salvation thereof as a Lamp that burneth, and until he make Jerusalem a praise in the Earth: whose voice, in his account (going forth in the power of his spirit from the sweetness you have tasted in communion with himself in the discovery of this glory) is sweet, and countenance is comely, and unto whom he will in the best time, say, Rise up my love, my fair one, and come away; for lo, the Winter is past, the Rain is over and gone, Isa. 26. 20. The flowers appear on the earth, Isa. 35. 2. Chap. 51. 3. The time of the singing of birds is come, Isa. 35. 6. And the voice of the Turtle is heard in our Land, Zach. 12. 10. And will rejoice over you as the Bridegroom over the Bride, with joy and singings, and will rest in his love. Zeph. 3. 17. compared with Isa. 62. 5. Wherefore be not damp or disheartened in your spirits at the hearing and sight of the late Addresses, nor at the great Cloud of Witnesses therein seeming to own the present and former Government. What though many of them are men of scholastic gifts and parts, and appearing grace, which to such as have not their eyes in their heads, and look not within the veil, may have an appearance the Lord doth own them, & approves of what hath been formerly and lately done? For though they are so

to great a Cloud of Witnesses, yet they are but Witnesses in the Clouds, whose Testimony, Carnal Wisdom, Policy, and Arm of Flesh, will passe away like the morning Cloud, or early dew : for the Spirit of the Lord in his People, Like the waters, Isa. 28.17. hath overflown and looked into their hiding places, abhor'd and blown upon them, therefore follow not a mukide to do evil. What though there be so many Prophets, great Scholars, learned Astrologers, and wise-men among them, yet know, That amongst almost 400 Prophets in the days of Abah and Jehaphat, but one Micaiah, a true Prophet that had the mind of God, among all the Congregation that were going from Egypt to Canaan ; among whom were many renowned Princes, Priests, and famous men, yet onely Moses, Caleb, Jehua, &c. that truly followed God, Numb. 14. Among all the wise men in Babylon, but one Daniel a true Prophet, Dan. 2. 19. But one Nouth a Preacher of Righteousness, and faithful in his generation before the Flood, Gen. 7.1. One Lot in Sodom. Among the seven Churches, Rev. 2. 3. but two, to wit, Philadelphia, and Smyrna, whom the Lord approves of ; but the other so carried it, (except a few among them) as he said it should be manifested they belonged rather to the Synagogue of Satan, then to the Churches of Christ. When the great destruction comes upon wicked men, a little before or upon the call of the Jews, but a handful, or as the gleaming grapes when the Vintage is done, shall lift up their heads, and rejoyce and glorifie God in the fires, Ijai. 24. They onely who speak often one to another when wickednesse is set up, and they that tempt God are delivered ; alluding to Israel, who would have made a Captain to return again to Egypt ; or rather the Apostacy of this our day, that the Lord owns all those who fear him, and have the promise of the Sun of Righteousness to arise upon them, Mal. 3. The false spirit of Magistracy in Adonijah aspiring to the Government, had the assistance of the King's sons, Abiathar the Priest, Joab the General, and all the Captains of the Host, &c. who with slaying of Oxen, &c. eating and drinking, said, God save Adonijah ; and carryed it for a time against Salomon : but the spirit of Salomon, Nathan the Prophet, &c. who had the true spirit of Government and Prophesie, approved not of, or consented to it, but were for the true spirit to rule, 1 King. 1. And so it is at this day ; and blessed be the Lord, that our eyes do see a people crying, longing, and will not be at rest, till the earthly selfish spirit of Magistracy be brought down, and the self-denying Magistracy or Horn of Diodor now budding in Zion, come in its room, Psal. 132. Wonder not, neither be turned aside because of that great multitude on the one hand, or smallness of the number on the other, that truly and indeed appear for, and own the cause of God ; but stand close, and be more refined in the light and spirit of Zion, and keep your ground ; for the Lord hath so appointed, That the foot shall tread it down, to wit, the meanness of the Saints : for it is very probable, that many of the great and wise Saints, according to Rev. 18.4. shall be found in the borders, and supporting the things of Babylon, and casting out their Brethren (Isa. 66.5.) saying, Let the Lord be glorified ; and having the mist of Babylon before their eyes, shall say, The Lord delays his coming, and will be beating their fellow-servants : onely the fee (to wit, the upright conversation) of these poor ones who desire to keep close to God, and not to touch with Babylon ; and steps, to wit, the faith, prayers, and honest endeavours of these ready ones, who long for, and cannot be at rest, till judgement, so visibly, return unto righteousness, that all the upright in heart may follow it : These shall tread down the leasy City, Ijai. 26. The least of the flock shall draw them out : the people that shall bring down the

the enemies of God in the latter days, are a small and feeble remnant: when the Lord comes to destroy Babylon, and to build up Zion, he will find but a few upright ones, and those very destitute, helpless, and some of them prisoners too, for their witness to the true Majesty and Ministry of Zion, whose prayers he will hear, and not despise, and bring forth to declare his glory in Zion, who shall in a holy triumph and rejoicing say, O Lord, thou art our God: we will exalt thee, we will praise thy Name, for thou hast done wonderful things, thy Councils of old are faithfulness and truth, &c. Lo, this is our God, we have waited for him; he will save us, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation. Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusteth in thee. Trust in the Lord for ever, &c. Isai. 25. 1, 9. Chap. 26. 25, 3. Which good and comfortable words shall certainly be made good; for heaven and earth shall pass away, but not one tittle of the Word shall pass till all be fulfilled. I the Lord will hasten it in its time, Isa. 60. 33. with Jer. 33. 25, 26. Hab. 2. 3. Read these Scriptures. Wherefore strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees, &c. Isa. 55. 3, 4.

And you, my dear Friends, Common-wealths-men (so called) who so greatly seem to press for righteousness and freedom, labour to bring forth this righteousness, not by a common moral spirit and principle, but by the spirit of Zion, a lively, spiritual, active frame of spirits, to wit, that frame mentioned 2 Sam. 23. (not to be pulsed and haled to do the good that lies before you, that is more suitable to the unjust Judge) but be as ready to help and refresh, and therein be as suitable to delight the oppressed that come unto you, as the light of the morning when the Sun riseth without Clouds, is to those who have lost their way in a dark night, and as the tender grass springeth out of the earth by clear shining after rain: this is the Spirit of the Horn of David, that shall bud in Zion, Psal. 132. The consideration whereof in the first manifestation and declaration of it by the Spirit unto and by David, having thereby a taste of that glory upon his spirit, made him to break forth into a holy triumph and rejoicing, saying, And this is all my salvation and all my desire, although he make it not to grow, (to wit, in his day.) Leave no stone unturned, no means untried to let the people who come unto you, speedily know one way or other what they shall trust to: Say not, Go, and come again to morrow, if you can do it to day; delays are burdensome and chargeable. Jeh. from the secret of God being upon his Tabernacle, and the precious dew of the Spirit compassing his roots, and lying all night upon his branch, had much of this blessed frame upon his spirit. He put on and clothed himself with righteousness; and had more love to judgment than to the robe and diadem; and upon that account, he was eyes to the blind, feet to the lame, a father to the poor, and the cause which he knew not, he searched out, Chap. 29. It concerns you, and is worth your reading. This will be the frame of the handful of corn in the earth, Psal. 72. (or mountain establish upon the top of the Mountains, Mich. 4. 13, 2.) the fruit whereof shall shake like Lebanon, they shall not be shaken by others, but themselves will shake off their fruit: then will you be and do according to the heart of God, and having this excellent spirit so freely, to make it your meat and drink to execute judgments, and therein to make your shadow as the night in the midst of the noon-day to the oppressed, you will abhor to bray (to wit) give up their right and freedom into the hands of Tyrants and Spoilers. To be to the oppressed as a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land, and as rivers of water in a dry

a dry place, standing open ready to refresh those that are thirsty, will be the frame of Christ and the Saints (the Horn of David) that shall reign in righteousness, &c. I/a. 31. 1, 2. Then those that dwell under your shadow shall return, (from their oppression) revive as the Corn, and grow as the Vine; and your favour among both good and bad concern'd in you, will be as the wine of Lebanon, Hos. 13. and shall lay, The Lord bless thee, thou habitation of Justice, &c. and wait for, (to wit, desire after you) as (the dry ground) for the rain, and open their mouths wide as (the mowed parch'd ground) for the latter rain, Job 29. 23. The foundation of the eternal welfare of your souls being first laid thorough faith in Christ, and an holy unblanchable conversation, (without which you cannot attain unto the other) it will then be your crown and rejoicing to forget the things behind, and to come up hither; or herein doth the Lord delight, as also will be the great glory of the latter days: and as you are in the power, glory, and sweetness of his Spirit herein exercised, will he delight in, and rejoice over you, and you will live as it were in heaven while you are upon the earth, and he will be for your protection, as a place of broad rivers and streams, wherein shall go no Gally with oars, or gallant ship passe thereby, &c. I/a. 33. Yes, your bow (as Jabr) renewed in your hand, to shoot at your enemies upon all occasions. The presence of God being thus with you, your terror will be upon all both at home and abroad that have a mind to hurt you, according to Psal. 48. God is known in her Palaces for a refuge: for lo, the Kings were assembled, they passed by together, they saw it, and so they marvelled, they were troubled, and hasted away: fear took hold upon them there, and pain as of a woman in travel; thou brakest the ships of Tarshish, &c. This salvation and forementioned righteousness, is the righteousness and salvation of Zion, spoken of I/a. 63. 1. which those who understand and taste the glory and sweetness of, cannot, will not hold their peace, or be at rest, till it go forth as brightness, or as a lamp that burneth. This is the true Spirit of the (o) Stone that disturbs and will destroy the beast and false Prophet. Be growing up in your light, and in the frame of your spirit to these things: in order to which, pray for the dawning of that measure of the Spirit which the Lord relating only to the work within, will not do it; therefore is it that so many Saints at this day turn in with the spirit and things of Babylon. Do not (like Alderman Trichebn) pretend to serve your Country freely, and afterwards take great Salaries: The people are poor, and it is your duty that have Estates, to take nothing from them except they freely give it: So ought also the Ministers of Christ to do. With other Scriptures read Micah. 3.

(o) Dm. 2.

44.

A word on the behalf of that faithful Servant of the Lord, Mr. John Portmans, now close Prisoner under lock night and day in the Tower of London, so that none may come nigh freedom to visit him. Prov. 31. 18. Open thy mouth for the poor, and needy, in the cause of all such as are appointed to destruction.

The Reader may take notice, That Mr. Portmans (formerly Secretary to the Navy) could not in conscience continue his employment under this Apostacy, though it were worth more then 300 l. per annum; and for his faithfulness to the cause of

God,

God, his People and the Nation, hath (amongst others) been a sufferer unto Bonds in the Tower this 17 of the 11 month 1658, a year wanting 3 weeks, never hearing what was laid to his charges, or that there was any to accuse him of evil: having commanded Col. Barkhead his Jaylor (when first brought in by his Souldiers) what his Crime was? could get no answer; neither was there any express in the Warrant by which he was apprehended; the substance whereof was, That he should be brought into the Tower to be kept until the further pleasure of the late Tyrants, whom the Warrant blasphemously styled his Highness the Lord Protector: who being lately dead, Mr. Poyntmans took notice of it in a Letter to Col. Barkhead, delivered to his hand by two faithful Brethren, needly demanding, If he had any further Warrant to continue him a prisoner? If he had, that then he might have a Copy, or at least the sight of it; which if he had not, in some short time, he must conclude there was none; and therefore his occasions to go forth for the well-being of his Family urging him to it, he should assay to attend upon them: but if upon Tiyal he found the force continued, he must consider what might be his further duty. This for substance, but with more plainness was intimated in the Letter, and accordingly a week after, not hearing from him, about three in an afternoon, not disguised, but in his constant habit, he went to the gate, expecting to be stopped, rather then otherwise; but finding the passage free, went forth to his Brother-in-laws house, not with an intent to conceal himself; from whence he was again taken within an hour. This is briefly and truly the matter of Facts, and may, it's hoped, justify him in his attempt not to be left to any thing unbecoming a sober Christian: yet was he the rather induced thus to do, upon words not long before spoken by Col. Barkhead, viz. That he might go out if he would. Asking some friends, If there were no way to persuade him to it, &c. There needs nothing be said to such as know that foul-mouth'd Malignant Nedham, to wipe off the reproach he hath raised in his Pamphlet, That Mr. Poyntmans should say, He would not go out if the gates were open, until he was satisfied for his imprisonment, to go about to do it, were to imply, that the Pamphleteer did sometimes speak truth; which should he do, he would be utterly disabled to serve his Masters, who make lies their refuge, and hire him at no small charge (as a means to uphold their own reputation) to asperse the faithful in the Land: yet considering the report may come to those that know him not, such may be assured, That Mr. Poyntmans never spake any such things, but hath ever declared, That he should not continue there, were the force be is under removed. But by all the noyse hath been made of this matter in the News-Books, they onely declare how grateful it would be to have any thing to colour over their unrighteous proceedings, and justify themselves in their hard and more then Heathenish usage of such as dare not say a confederacy with them in their Apostacy; for unto this hour, after now almost a years imprisonment, and at this time so close, as that he is locked up night and day, can he not hear of Acculation or Accuser, or so much as a Warrant for his Decension, other then as is before mentioned, That he should be taken and kept during the pleasure of the deceased Tyrant: which may become every true Englishman to be scabble of; for who knows whole lot it may be next, to feel the like oppression, when it shall please our Task-masters to impose it?

A Third Narrative.

IN the afore-going Narrative, you have an Account of the Actors upon the Stage in this present Juncture of Time, the eminent Lords of the Other Hou'e : It is intended in this Supplement to take a General View of all the Alterations that hath happened, their Rise and Cause ; and then consider the present Debates in Council of Parliament.

The first Original Cause of disturbing the Mindes of the whole Nation of England, as well as that of Scotland, was the prize of the Bishops, who not contenting themselves with the power letted in their hands, in the Days of Queen Elizabeth ; but invading the Civil-Power, and taking Cognizance of Civil-Causes, and imposing upon the Consciences of the just Religious People, and promoting of New Ceremonies in the Church, gave thereby occasion of dislike to the good people of this Nation ; they engaging the late King in the Quarrel, the which weakened his power over his Subjects, and gave thereby opportunity for the late Civil and Unnatural War.

While they were thus building this Fabrick of Ecclesiastical Tyranny, they take to their Aid several of the great men of the Court ; and to espouse them into a Quarrel with the people, under-hand aided them in gaining Monopolies of most of the vendible and staple-commodities of the Nation : all which discontented the people in such sort, that the Kings Commanders were every where disobeyed, and slighted by his Subjects : inomuch, in so much, that when he waged war with the Scots, he had contracted such great debts, that he was necessitated to call a Parliament, without which Authority, the Subjects would not submit to payments of any kind whatsoever. A Pacification is made with the Scots, in hopes to make use of these Arms raised to oppose them; if they would thereupon have layed down their Arms. Then the Arms in the Kings hands, should have been made use of to awe the English Nation, and reduce them to conform to the exorbitants, and Illegal wiles of the corrupt Ministers of State. But that prevailing not, a second Parliament is called, and made triennial: they disband both Armies, and take upon them to question divers who had abused the King and Kingdom; the King suffereth some of his friends to fall into their hands: others he defends by taking Arms, and setteth a Commission of Array, contrary to the advice of his Council: who advised him not to put his life and power, into the Scales of an uncertain War: especially, since that upon the foregoing considerations, of his people being incited by the invading of their Liberties and just Rights, his disadvantages were the greater on every hand; and it would give the greater advantage to factious Spirits desiring of change, to carry it on with greater vigor and odds by far, then any designs that ever was carried on against any of his Predecessors; And that it were better for him to give away all then lose all: and that it was better for him, to grant that which they could rest from him, by which means he might secure himself and posterity; and also that it would be greater glory for him to Rule Princes, then be a Prince of slaves, for no better were his people at that day. This was the advice of a Noble person, that followed him in all his wars, to the loss of his Estate and ruin of his Family. Well, the King is in Arms, the Parliament Armes also: the Parliament begins to Levy vast sums on publick faith. The King useth such other means by his friends, as putteth him in a condition to take the field with a powerful Army. Several Battels fought with various events: the King is Master of the field at first. The Parliament become Presbyterianians to draw in the Scots to their aid. At length the Parliament new Moddeleth their Army, in which Cromwel is a person of no small ranke. The King declineh in power and loseth, he taketh himself to the Scots, who sell him for 200000 li.

H

that

Adresses

Addresses are made to the King during his restraint by the Army when he was at Oaklands. When the City of London and part of the Parliament oppos'd, the Army prevail'd by their approach only to the City, the Tower, all Forts, and Magazines are surrendered to them. Now they fear their applications to the King, the King is got by a trick into the Isle of Wight, to make way for the after-game.

He is not long after beheld as a Tyrant, Traytor, and grand Incendiary: the Nation is declared a Free State, during which time, great and horrid injustice and abuses were committed, to the shame and infamy of that Parliament. Cromwel being now arriv'd to the dignity of Commander in chief, over all the Forces of the three Nations; in it he placeth Anabaptists, to poyze with the Independants and Presbyterians, who were the friends of the Parliament. The Parliament foreseeing the underhand dealing of the Army to play into Cromwel's hand, Resolved to dissolve themselves, and call a new Representative; but Cromwel preventeth them, and forcibly dissolveth them, under pretence of the heavy burthens that yet continued upon the people, and his Army ruleth.

Now, you must suppose the people of England a Free People indeed, after the expence of both sides; had cost the Nation of England, one hundred thirty five Millions of money, which is more by one third then all the Wars since the Conquest, either forreign or other, did cost the Nation; all which are carefully collected, and shall ere long be made appear, to the shame of those dry Spunges, that have suckt the wealth of the Nation. Well, Cromwel now calleth a number of wiser men from Gosam, and other parts of the Nation to Councils: they call themselves a Parliament, and were about to let him know as much: But some of these wise-men repair to him, resign their power back to him, and he is made Lord Protector; after he calleth a thing like to a Parliament, and they would not warpe to his Design: he dissolveth them because they could not make Musick of the Instrument of Government.

He falleth into a Fit of Dislike of his Instrument, and putteth it up into us Case, and calleth another Parliament; excluding a great part thereof, with the one half, or little more: A Petition of Advice it framed; in it He is desired to be a KING: He smelleth the Design, that those who promoted that, did it in order to destroy him: For that then the Cause, and other Preences must be laid aside, which were good Barres against the Smart's Claim to the Royal Dignity.

Upon which, He waveth that part of the Advice, and accepteth all the rest; is again made Protector. With great ado this Parliament is adjourned: at their next Meeting, the Excluded Members are admitted, upon taking an Oath to be true to his Highness, forsooth: But so soon as these Excluded Members were admitted, they fall to questioning all that had been done before. Some object, that they had sworn to be true to the Legal Government. Others answered, They knew none in being that was legal. Well! He seeing that when they were together, they were not for His Tooth, He contents himself with the Petition of Advice, which inbleth him to nominate his Successor; to have another House: And as he had not the Confidence to take upon Him the Title of KING; so also had He not the Impudence to call them a House of Lords, since no One in this Nation was a greater Instrument of designing the Ruine of Both, then Himself. He dyeth, and as it is said, nominateth his Son Richard Protector, to succeed Him.

Richard calleth this present Parliament; wherein the Petition of Advice is wholly set to nought: the great Oppressions, Tyranny, and Inconveniencies of the Times fully debated. To obtrude the Debate thereof, it was aheadged, That all the Members had taken the Oath at their Admission, to be true and obedient to the present Power; and therefore they could not with good Conscience admit of such Debates.

To that it was answered, That the best Stamp of the present Power, was Parliamentary Authority; and what was done by one Parliament, might be undone by another: That their Forefathers.

Fathers did formerly, when admitted Members of that House, take the Oath of Allegiance to be true to the KING; and obedient to the Laws in being: Yet notwithstanding, so soon as they came into the Parliament, they Debated of New Laws, and altering of Old; nay, repealing many: Therefore, the Oath binds them as private persons; not as publick persons: else they had been in that point all forsworn.

That no Parliament can make a Law to binde a Successive Parliament; but that they may alter what is fit to be altered: Thereupon they took in hand the Debate of the Petition of Advice; to prevent which, some of the New Courtiers bring in a Bill, or Recognition, which hath been variously debated; and upon the Debate, Resolved, That the Nation shall be governed by a Single Person, and Two Houses of Parliament.

Now having taken some Orderly View of the various Changes and Turns; and also of the present Position of Government, though undigested, and unlikely; therefore no Judgment can be made of it what it will be, nor what it may be able to produce, as to Settlement or Security. Therefore,

If

I.

IF we must have a single Person, and that Succession be hereditary, Whether this will not make more for the STUARTS Family to claim against any Family whatsoever? and assert their Right and Claim, which hath been endeavoured to be shut out by several Acts of Parliament?

II.

Whether that the maintaining of the Dignity of a single Person will not be exceeding burdensome, seeing the Crown-Revenues are disposed of into private Hands?

III.

Whether that the Constituting of such a HOUSE of LORDS, of such persons mentioned in the foregoing Narrative, will bring any benefit to the Nation, or the single Person, when that the Ability and Interest of the whole Number cannot draw in to the Field (in case of Invasion or other Insurrection) 2000 men at Arms. When that the Intention of such Constitutions was at first, to Expect from them to make in such Cases, considerable Levies, sooner then could be expected from the Commons.

Whether

Whether or no doth the Spanish Warre bring any advantage to the Nation, other then to keep up a pretended Necessity of Arms; when that thereby already we have lost 705 Sails of Ships, great and small, to the value of Two Millions, and Three Hundred Thousand Pounds; besides the value of a Million of Money lost, for want of employing the Manufactury of the Nation, in the Commodities that might in the time of the War with Spain; have been vented there.

THE END.